Largest Deficit Since World War II

Nixon's Budget Is $246 Billion

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon handed Congress today a $246.3-billion budget for fiscal 1973 written in deep red ink. He announced two huge deficits—$38.8 billion this fiscal year and $25.5 billion next—and said they will help speed up the nation's economic recovery.

His budget message asked neither for further tax cuts to stimulate the slack economy nor for tax increases to meet the climbing costs of government, although his deficits are the two largest since World War II.

"Deficit spending at this time, like temporary wage and price controls, is strong but necessary medicine," Nixon said. Yet his message slapped repeatedly at the Democratic-controlled Congress for spending more than he had asked.

Revenues will rise "as the new prosperity takes hold," Nixon promised. This trend makes possible the smaller deficit for fiscal 1973, starting next July 1, he said, and "brings us strongly forward toward our goal of a balanced budget in a time of full employment."

In asking $76.5 billion for defense, Nixon scheduled the first sizable increase in new weapons-system spending in years, even while "we move to zero draft calls."

He asked $3.191 billion for space, a bit more than this year but aimed at less lofty exploration goals.

And the President unveiled, as a basic turn in national strategy, a government-sparked drive to speed technological progress, to cut costs, increase productivity and restore competitive leadership to American industry.

The budget accordingly calls for a many-sided program to stimulate research and development by private firms, universities and federal agencies with tax incentives, grants, subsidies and other incentives. Many of the incentive plans are experimental and none was specified in detail, but Nixon earmarked $16.48 billion as the government's total 1973 spending on research and development compared with this year's $15.779 billion.

"This year we shall have the agency which sent men to the moon and back begin to assist the Department of Transportation in finding better ways to send people downtown and back," Nixon said.

Another shift in national priorities was emphasized: For the first time, the Department of Defense will not have the biggest budget. The Department of Health, Education and Welfare, with scheduled outlays of $78.95 billion, will top the Pentagon's spending by billions, mostly because of rising Social Security payments.

Nixon made a renewed request for $350 million in start-up funds for his planned welfare reforms and family-assistance payments, which he called "workfare" throughout the message. He put revenue sharing down for $2.25 billion in what remains of fiscal 1972 and $5.3 billion in fiscal 1973. Congress is most unlikely to give him any of these sums in this session.

Nixon assumed there will be a strong upward thrust of production, income and profits in 1972 to achieve his projected $23-billion increase in tax revenues from this fiscal year to the next.

Unlike his overoptimistic estimates of a year ago, however, the White House projections this time are generally in line with the expectations of a majority of professional economists.

The message had some political flavor. It scolded Congress for voting more money than Nixon asked. It advised taxpayers they are saving $22 billion in income taxes this year because of tax cuts since he took office. And it repeatedly rebuked Congress for inaction in dealing with Nixon programs.

The message was studded with demands for frugality in spending and for adherence to a "full-employment balance" in budget-making. The full-employment - budget concept, adopted by Nixon last year, holds that a budget deficit is not inflationary if total spending is held below the amount of tax revenues the economy would generate if it were running at "full employment"—that is, with only about 4 per cent unemployment.

Even with its real, dollars-and-cents deficit of $25.5 billion, Nixon's 1973 budget would be merely stimulative and not inflationary—under the "full-employment" concept—because its outlays would be roughly $700 million below the theoretical "full-employment revenues."

Chief Brett, Two Deputies To Retire From Fire Dept.

By HUGH REYNOLDS

KINGSTON James M. Brett, chief of the Kingston Fire Department since July 1, 1955, will retire on March 11, The Freeman learned today.

Chief Brett will be joined in retirement by two deputy chiefs, Glyndon Southard and Harry Sills and by Firefighter Albert Hutton Sr. The four men have a total of 116 years service among them.

The retirements of Brett, Southard and Sills will leave the department with only two of its normal complement of five top officers—Deputy Chiefs Robert Maines and Deputy Chief Hugh Greer. Two fire captains, Francis Argulewicz and Philip Greer, took the Civil Service exam for deputy chief last November but the results are not in yet.

It is expected that either Deputy Chief Maines or Deputy Chief Greer will be appointed acting chief of the department until a Civil Service test for chief can be given, probably in November of this year. Maines is the senior deputy chief.

Chief Brett, who will mark his 59th birthday on March 5, was appointed to the paid department on Aug. 1, 1938, and worked out of Wiltwyck Station. His rise through the ranks was rapid. He made captain at Wiltwyck on Feb. 1, 1942, was inducted into the Army Air Corps in November of that year, serving until February of 1946 and a year later was promoted to deputy chief. He succeeded the late Joseph Murphy as chief of the department on July 1, 1955.

Deputy Chief Sills, the youngest of the retirees at 49, was appointed a third grade fireman on Sept. 16, 1950. He made lieutenant on Jan. 26, 1960 and was promoted to captain the ollowing Sept. 16. He was promoted to deputy chief on May 31, 1967.

Deputy Chief Southard, 61, was appointed a third grade fireman on Jan. 15, 1942, served in the Army during World War II from April 20, 1943 to Nov. 16, 1945 and was appointed a captain on Feb. 6, 1955. He was appointed deputy chief on June 9, 1962.

Fire Fighter Hutton was appointed with Deputy Chief Southard on Jan. 15, 1942. He was promoted to first grade fireman in 1945. He has been the driver of Truck Two from Central Station since 1950.

Hutton, is the father of two children, one of whom, Albert C. Jr., is a detective with the Kingston Police Department. A married daughter lives in Hyde Park.

Hutton, in retirement, will sell and service fire extinguishers from his home at 12 Belvedere Street.

Chief Sills, who served for five and a half years in the Army was one of the first firemen to claim retirement credits for time in service, as provided for by the Common Council last year. Sills who served 22 years with the department, can claim three years extra for his service time.

Chief Brett, during his 17-year tenure at the head of the department, was known as an outspoken innovator who often took his views to the public. Shortly after taking office as chief, he began a campaign to have sprinklers installed in all public buildings and schools. His views were often met with headed opposition from school board officials, parochial school officials and public officials. "We must reject any method that relies on the dependability of man-kind," Brett wrote at one point. "This includes such activities as fire prevention, education, propaganda, legislation, i.e., building laws, prohibited activities or the unreliable vigilance of inspection practices."

Rev. Berrigan, Six Others Start Trial in Harrisburg

HARRISBURG, Pa. (UPI) — The Rev. Philip F. Berrigan and six other antiwar activists go on trial today accused of plotting to kidnap presidential adviser Henry A. Kissinger, to blow up the Washington, D.C. heating system in winter, and to vandalize draft boards in nine states.

Defense sympathizers heralded the opening of the trial today with a procession to the courthouse carrying a black coffin that contained mutilated draft records.

The demonstration was staged by the Harrisburg Defense Committee, a national organization with headquarters here, which said the coffin would be used throughout the trial as a symbol for deposit of "various instruments of war that deserve to be buried."

The trials could be a social as well as legal milestone. Six of the seven defendants either are or have been priests or nuns of the Roman Catholic left. They contend the government is harassing them for opposing the Vietnam war and that pretrial publicity prevents a fair trial.

All four prosecutors are Catholics, at least two of them of traditional bent. The federal court middle district of Pennsylvania, from which a venire of 175 was drawn for today's start of jury picking, is a predominantly Protestant section of conservative political thought.

From his cell in the county prison at the city limits, Berrigan issued a trial-seven message Sunday night to 200 supporters at a fog-shrouded rally just outside the prison fence. As read by a defense attorney, it said in part:

"How about using the trial as an occasion for giving rebirth to the movement? How about giving movement to something that never really moved, at least in a sustained way? How about saying this time that our lives are fruit and peace, both of which mean resistance? ... Let's hack up our rhetoric with our lives ....

"Let's push back the darkness. That's what they said about Christ, you know. He pushed back the darkness once and for all."

Judge R. Dixon Herman delayed the jury selection start until completion of a session in chambers with attorneys to decide procedure and nature of questioning prospects. A ruling was pending on a defense motion to move part of the "kidnap Kissinger" section of the trial to New York City.

Kissinger is assistant to the President for National Security Affairs, a member of the National Security Council and of the Council of International Economic Policy, all in the White House executive office.

A final indictment issued April 30 charged the so-called 'Harrisburg Eight" —one defendant's case since has been severed —with conspiring during practically all of 1970 to blow up the tunnels carrying heating pipes to Washington federal buildings on Washington's Birthday, 1971, and to kidnap Kissinger the next day. This plus plundering the Selective Service offices.

Sunday night, at a rally called by the Harrisburg Defense Committee. Sister Elizabeth McAlister, one of the defendants, read what she called a "prayer of the defendants." It said the defendants "had to deal with the crunching irony of a criminal government, which thoughtful men have branded illegitimate, indicting people whose lives have been the poor, the students, the victims of war."

"Legitimacy or illegitimacy, we found, makes not the slightest difference," she continued. "Criminal governments like criminal individuals frequently possess the power of the world, and they will use it mainly to remain power."

Heaviest Air Action Since '68

SAIGON (UPI)—The U.S. military command today reported the heaviest aerial combat over North Vietnam and Laos since former President Lyndon B. Johnson halted the American bombing north of the Demilitarized one in 1968.

In South Vietnam, Communist gunners shot down another U.S. observation helicopter, B52s carried out more raids aimed at halting a Communist offensive in the Central Highlands and more fighting was reported on the Central coast.

The U.S. Command said the heavy air action over North Vietnam and Laos erupted Saturday when U.S. warplanes struck North Vietnamese missile and antiaircraft guns in four separate socalled protective reaction raids.

"As far as our records show, that is the most protective reactions in a single day" since the Nov. 1, 1968 bombing halt in North Vietnam, U.S. sources in Saigon said.

U. S. Army opens gates to Vietnamese prostitutes and "Screaming Eagles" receive tumultuous welcome. Stories on page 7.

Three strikes by U.S. Navy A7 Corsair fighter-bombers flying from aircraft carriers in the Tonkin Gulf were against Communist missile radars surrounding Ban Karai pass, a major gateway into the Ho Chi Minh trail from North Vietnam. Results of the strikes were unknown.

The fourth was by a flight of four U.S. Air Force F4 Phantom jets which destroyed two North Vietnamese antiaircraft guns in the northern half of the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ).

Military spokesmen also disclosed two U.S. air strikes over the weekend against Communist antiaircraft sites in the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ) and a missile radar station in North Vietnam.

The U.S. Air Force B52s flew two missions against North Vietnamese troop positions two miles east of the so-called triborder area 38 miles northwest of Kontum. A third mission was directed against Communist bunkers and ammunition storage sites 46 miles southwest of Kontum and two miles east of the Cambodian frontier.

The raids were part of a sustained drive by the B52s in the Central Highlands where allied intelligence has said the North Vietnamese are in the process of a substantial buildup in apparent preparation for an offensive in the next few weeks.

Much of the Communist activity has been in the area where South Vietnam, Laos and Cambodia come together.

The U.S. command also belatedly announced the loss of two American helicopters to communist antiaircraft fire last week. Two GIs were killed and six wounded in one of the helicopters. They were hit by ground fire while returning from a rescue mission in Laos.

The crew of the other helicopter was rescued without injury.

Military spokesmen said a U.S. Navy A7 Corsair jet bombing North Vietnamese trucks on the Ho Chi Minh Trail near Ban Kari Pass 35 miles north of the DMZ detected that a missile radar inside North Vietnam was tracking it.

The jet crossed into North Vietnam and fired a missile at the radar site. There were no immediate reports as to whether it was destroyed.

SNOWMOBILE TRAGEDY — Kris Peterson, 10, Minneapolis, Minnesota, is removed from scene after being hit by a runaway snowmobile that crashed through a fence during the running of the world's championship snowmobile derby in Eagle River, Wisc. The 360-pound snowmobile lost its driver on a turn when the throttle stuck and the vehicle smashed into the fence hitting five people. Peterson was pronounced dead at a local hospital. Bootleg Whiskey Kills 85 in India

NEW DELHI (UPI) —Police said today 85 persons have died from drinking bootleg whisky at a wedding party and that those who survive may be blinded for life. The dead included the vendor of the moonshine, his brother and their aged mother.

Police officials said 67 of the 109 persons who drank the moonshine were admitted to public hospitals and died there. Another 18 bodies were found in streets and shacks in an untouchable shantytown of the Indian capital.

Police suspected the whisky was made from methyl alcohol. The government ordered a judicial inquiry into the tragedy.

Police said the father of the bridegroom took wedding guests to the slum area and bought drinks from a bootlegger at about seven cents a glass. Soon after drinking it a few of the guests fell ill and were taken to hospitals. The first deaths occurred Saturday afternoon.

More victims were hospitalized and died throughout the night.

Police searched the area and found others unconscious on the ground and took them to hospitals.

Liquor in New Delhi normally costs about $1 a bottle, too expensive for impoverished laborers in the untouchable slum districts.

Untouchables are the lowest persons of India's now outlawed caste system and many members of higher castes still will not eat food over which an untouchable's shadow has passed.

City Burglaries Under Probe

KINGSTON — Three schools in the city, a business establishment and two private residences were entered and ransacked during a rash of burglaries under investigation by Kingston detectives. Nothing of value was missing police said, but inventories are underway.

On Sunday, Herbert Draves, custodian at the J. Watson Bailey School on Quarry Street, notified police that the school had been entered through a door on the north side of the school, from which glass had been smashed. Detectives learned that three cabinets in the main office had been pried open and the contents strewn around the floor.

A breakin at the Harry L. Edson School on Merilina Avenue was discovered Sunday morning by a janitor who summoned police. Glass had been broken in a door leading to the main office. Desks were ransacked.

Police also reported the George Washington School, 67 Wall Street, had been burglarized over the weekend. Entry was gained by breaking glass in a door leading to the principal's office.

Authorities said apparently nothing of value had been taken from the schools.

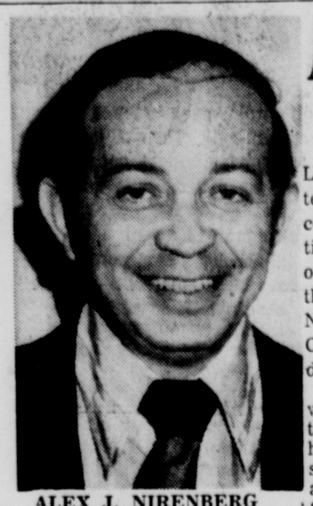

Another burglary was reported at the Zwick and Schwartz Inc., produce and fruit building at 36 O'Neil Street. A panel had been smashed from the lower portion of an overhead door, and investigation disclosed a quantity of foodstouffs had been taken by the intruder.

Clarence Myers, caretaker for the property of Henry Forst on Noone's Lane, reported late last week that the Forst home had been hit by burglars. The Forst family presently is vacationing in Florida and whether anything of value was missing from their home will be determined on their return to Kingston, The residence had been entered by breaking the rear door frame. All rooms had been ransacked, police said.

The home of Hilton Mathews at 107 Henry Street, also was burglarized on Sunday. Police were told that a small safe had been ransacked after a padlock was removed. Missing was a metal box containing insurance policies and a deed to the Henry Street property. Entry was gained after a hasp and padlock was pried from a door leading to a storage area.

ALEX J. NIRENBERG

Nirenberg Criticizes Appointments

KINGSTON — "The formation of the 1972 Legislature Standing Committees by Chairman Peter Savago could be called a hilarious practical joke if it was not so serious to the county's future at this critical time," Alex J. Nirenberg (D-Dist. 10), Ulster County Legislator, charged today.

"I'm well aware that he wants me out in 'left field' and that he doesn't want my voice heard, but he certainly will not succeed with his quick shuffle and razzle-dazzle with committees," Nirenberg stated.

"Recognizing the serious judicial and legal problems the county faces, as an attorney I asked to be appointed to the Judicial and Legal Committee. Instead, Savago appointed highly esteemed James Carroll of Kingston. Legislator Carroll, a bartender by trade, of course did not ask for 'Judicial and Legal,' yet was refused committee appointments where he felt that he could be of more value to the Legislature and the people of Ulster County. This is but one example of the 'Savagueness' of our chairman's committee choices," the newly elected legislator added.

"An examination of the entire list points out that in spite of the fact that the legislature is made up of almost one-third Democrats, 100 per cent of all the committee chairmen are Republican dominated.

"If the 'savagoal' is to look back to the old politics, destroy dissent and stifle progress by a 'one-party' government, he will not succeed by such committee manipulations. I will not allow it, my fellow Democrats will not allow it and the people of Ulster County will surely not allow it.

"I intend to propose a resolution at the February meeting to correct this and assure that no chairman in the future will follow this dangerous course. It will be interesting to all to see how the majority of the Legislature reacts," Nirenberg concluded.

State as School Tax Collector: Equality Is the Goal

ALBANY, N. Y. (UPI)—After a two-year, $1.5 million study, the Fleischmann Commission is preparing to release its report this weekend, calling for a statewide system of school finance.

Commission Chairman Manly Fleischmann said the first documents would be several lengthy chapters, explaining the intricate way in which the state, local and federal governments share the state's $5 billion annual cost for elementary and secondary schools.

Fleischmann said chapters on parochial aid and school integration would probably be released next week, with later reports due on the curriculum.

Although Fleischmann declined to discuss details, other sources have reported the commission findings will include:

—The state should guarantee equal financing of schools through a statewide property tax collection system.

—The state should stop its $33 million in parochial school aid, which is now being re-written after being struck down by a federal court.

Courts in at least four other states have already ruled against the system whereby school finances depend on property taxes in districts of varying wealth. Districts with expensive homes or major industries can have low tax rates and still spend more per pupil than low income areas with high tax rates.

Although Fleischmann declined to discuss details, other ward equality, in 1970 the per pupil spending still ranged from $835 in the lowest district to $1,413 in the highest.

The possible remedy, Governor Rockefeller noted in his budget message "is for the state to take over the collection of real property taxes for school purposes." All districts would then be paid a state per pupil average.

Such a politically touchy, financially intricate change is not likely to occur in one year.

"This year, they can at least set up a framework for the changes," Fleischmann said.

While the commission may initially call for a statewide administration of real estate taxes to finance schools it may also ask the state to phase out property taxes entirely over several years and obtain schools funds from other sources. Such a move does not appear likely in the current fiscal climate however.

The governor requested another $117 million, to cover enrollment increases from last year. It would keep the state's total at $2.4 billion, or about 43 per cent of the total costs. Localities pay slightly more than 50 per cent, with the federal government paying the rest.

Inmates at Auburn Join the Jaycees; Expect Other Institutions to Follow

AUBURN, N.Y. (AP) — The once-closed society of Auburn Correctional Facility has opened its doors to the outside a little wider with the chartering of the first all-inmate chapter of the Jaycees in a New York State-run prison.

The chartering ceremonies were witnessed Sunday by more than 100 gray-clad inmate Jaycees and 200 invited guests, most of them from local, state and national branches of the young men's organization.

Officials said it was the largest group of outsiders ever admitted inside the walls in the prison's 155-year history.

Inmates and outsiders intermingled freely and without tension throughout the chartering program, which included tours of the prison's school and cellblock areas and a steak dinner on metal trays in the mess hall before the official ceremonies in the compound's brand new chapel.

Chapter President DeWitt Lee Jr. of Buffalo accepted state and national charters from state jaycees president Frank Hamilton Jr. of Rochester's suburban Penfield.

Lee, other officers and members of the racially integrated chapter were sworn in by John T. Jankowiak, board chairman of the state organization.

Lee and several other speakers attested to the rehabilitative use of the Jaycees' credo that "service to humanity is the best work of life."

"We have seen the necessity of uplifting ourselves before we can uplift our community," Lee told his attentive audience. "We still have wants, we still have hopes, we still have dream. The Jaycees have given us the means to uplift ourselves."

Auburn Supt. Robert B. Henderson recalled that when he became chief administrator of the 1,600-man institution nearly a year ago, it was "still feeling the aftershock" of a brief but major inmate rebellion in November, 1970., "much as Attica is going through today."

The prison Jaycees, then still in their formative stage, showed him that "something could be done that could be a positive force," Henderson said.

"One of the first things was establishment of an inmates advisory council" to serve as a bridge between the prisoner population and the correctional staff, henderson added. "This really originated through the Jaycees," and many council members also are Jaycees, he said.

With an eye to local history, and perhaps to contemporary conditions, the inmates named their chapter the Logan Jaycees, after an Indian chief credited with being a peacemaker between his tribesmen and white settlers in the Auburn area.

The chapter has 119 members, 10 more than the regular Auburn city chapter that guided its formation and sponsored its application for full chartering.

Gary Hill of Lincoln, Neb., the Jaycees' national coordinator for prison extention, noted that about 180 penal institutions across the nation have chapters but that Auburn's is the first in a New York State-run facility.

The New York City correctional facility on Rikers Island also is home to an inmate chapter, which plans to get its national charter in April.

Other prisons in the state are watching the Logan Jaycees closely before deciding whether to follow suit, Hamilton said.

Jankowiak said he and another officer visited Attica last Friday and "we got nothing but encouraging words" about bringing the Jaycees concept to that riot-scarred institution.

John S. McMahon, Logan Jaycees treasurer, said the chapter has begun education programs in real estate sales and sports officiating inside the prison compound with the aid of the Auburn jaycees.

Much of the chapter's external service effort will center on drug-abuse prevention, including perhaps visits to high schools by selected inmates whose narcotics problems caused them to run afoul of the law, he added.

State Sen. Theodore Day, whose legislative district includes Auburn, told the inmates that prison reforms would be enacted but that changes may come gradually. He urged them to show patience.

As the lengthy ceremonies drew to a close, James W. Eagan, chapter external vice president, presented to Henderson an oil portrait he had done of the warden in appreciation of the official's willingness to "sit down and talk to us."

The unscheduled presentation took Henderson by surprise.

"I hope I can continue to do what I have in the past," he said in acknowledgement. "I hope God will give me the wisdom and fortitutde to carry on."

Police Charge Three In Mutilation Death

BUFFALO, N. Y. (UPI) — Police found a young woman's decapitated body in a bathtub and her arms in the kitchen sink of an East Side apartment Sunday. Three suspects, including two high school students, were arrested.

Two of the suspects were drinking beer at a kitchen table in the second-floor apartment when police arrived. The third was sitting in the living room, which was aglow with psychedelic ceiling lights.

Scattered in the bathroom were a bloody hacksaw, a two-foot crowbar, a 12-inch butcher knife and wirecutters apparently used in the mutilation, police said. In the sink with the victim's arms, severed at the shoulders, was a hammer and two screwdrivers.

The unidentified victim was described as between 16 and 20 years old, 5-feet-4, about 135 pounds, with long brown hair. Her clothes, which offered no clues to her identity, were found in a pile on the kitchen floor, police said.

Charged with murder was Lloyd Sikorski, 17, a student at Burgard Vocational High School, who police said met the girl after leaving a party at the death scene, and returned to the party with her.

David Luczak, 20, a painter in whose apartment the body was found, and William Turner, 17, also a Burgard student, were charged with criminal facilitation of the crime and hindering prosecution.

Lt. Leo J. Donovan, commander of the homicide bureau, said on the basis of statements made by the suspects, it appeared the girl thought Sikorski had intentsion against her an dprotested.

The slaying followed an argument that Sikorski said began after she called him some names," detectives said.

Donovan said Sikorski allegedly struck her, apparently with the crowbar, and believed she was dead. The suspect then placed the girl in the bathtub and covered her with water, he alleged.

Fish Predicts Increases

KINGSTON

A modest increase in social security and an increase in the minimum wage "are sure legislative bets" for the coming year, Congressman Hamilton Fish Jr., predicted today.

He also forsees legislation pertaining to consumer protection on warranties, campaign spending reform, additional aid for colleges and universities, pension legislation and the creation of a consumer advocacy agency.

Congressman Fish also feels an increase in defense spending seems likely. "Observers are predicting a tough fight on this issue," he said, "but I believe the need for a rise in defense spending will be so apparent to a majority of my colleagues as to obviate a bruising battle on this question."

Fish said that while there can be no question but that the friction between the Democratic Congressional leadership and the Republican Administration will increase this year as both sides maneuver for presidential election advantage, he sees 1972 as a year for clearing up a great deal of important unfinished business.

Speaking just after the start of the Second Session of the 92nd Congress, Fish recalled that about a year ago President Nixon went before Congress to outline a number of major Administration programs. Regrettably, as of this date, the major legislative goals of that program—revenue sharing, welfare reform and health care—remain somewhere within the limbo of the Congressional committee system.

As these programs for the good of the American people deserve to be enacted into law, I believe 1972 will see the passage of major legislation in all three of these important areas.

A pressing need for Congress to tackle in the early days after it reconvenes is the enactment of a Federal Water Pollution Control Act. For a number of reasons, many of them political, at this moment there is no Federal program on the books for carrying on the task of cleaning up our nation's waters.

The failure of Congress to act upon a new program when the old 1965 Water quality Act expired on June 30, 1971, has resulted in all projects needing funding authority in New York State coming to a halt, leaving a number of communities in the 28th Congressional District and across the State in a highly difficult position.

The present deadlock arose when the Senate passed the Muskie proposal, which was strongly opposed by the Administration, New York State authorities and a fair proportion of the members of the House. To resolve this impasse new legislation is being drafted in the House Public Works Committee which should be ready for action in the early days of the Second Session.

Realtors Course Offered

STONE RIDGE

The New York State Realtors Institute in cooperation with Ulster County Community College will offer Course I in professional real estate training at the College's Stone Ridge campus on nine Tuesday evenings starting March 14.

Ronald A. Koster, the Director of Continuing Education at UCCC, said the Institute is taking its course to the Hudson Valley to make it easier for local Realtors wanting this specialized training. In the past interested persons had to travel to Ithaca for a concentrated seven-day course of study during the summer months.

The Institute has been developed to fill the need for comprehensive instruction in all phases of real estate operations. And Institute Committee of the New York State Association of Real Estate Boards has resulted in a three-part program, the first part (Course I) of which will be offered at the UCCC campus.

Koster said the whole curriculum has been prepared to give participants a broad range of subject matter and to present the material in a way to emphasize its practical application.

The professional designation "G.R.I." (Graduate Realtors Institute) is awarded to participants who complete the full Institute program composed of Courses I, II and III.

Course I is open to all interested persons. Certification as "G.R.I." is limited to persons holding an active New York State Broker's or Salesman's License and membership in the New York State Association of Real Estate Boards upon graduation from the Institute.

Course I to be offered on the UCCC campus will cover Real Estate Marketing, Real Estate Ethics and Civic Responsibility, Real Estate Appraising, Fundamentals of Real Estate, Real Estate Law, and Real Estate Finance.

Further information about the course can be obtained by calling the Center for Continuing Education at UCCC.

Bell Reviews the Issues At Underwriters' Meeting

KINGSTON — "If President Nixon can't get anything out of Congress, how can Gov. Rockefeller?" Assemblyman H. Clark Bell told a luncheon meeting of Ulster County Association of Life Underwriters Friday, once again reiterating his criticism of the governor's anticipation of $600 million in revenue sharing.

Claiming the state budget is unsound, Bell, who did not vote for it, warned that if the federal government doesn't come up with the money, the state will have to.

Discussing the state fiscal crisis as a whole, Bell, speaking at the Gov. Clinton Hotel, told of the state's having terminated 100,000 employe jobs, pointing out that local governments are not cutting back in the same manner. He recalled that New York's Mayor John Lindsay hired more than 100,000 in five years, many in jobs that do not require Civil Service status.

"People are not getting involved enough," he suggested. "They should keep informed in order to better express themselves on what the priorities are. When it's business as usual, then the taxpayer and the citizen loses out."

But of priorities, he also asked, "What you cut back on some state services such as mental health?" Telling or having visited mental institutions which are understaffed and describing the circumstances surrounding three unnecessary deaths because of the shortage of help. Bell asked, "It is not the state's responsibility to first help those people who can't help themselves?"

Spontaneous applause greeted the assemblyman's reiterated opposition to striking workers receiving unemployment funds.

The subject was raised by one of the luncheon guests who asked Bell if his position on strikers and unemployment funds varied depending on whom he was addressing.

Bell replied emphatically that his stand always has and is the same — that paying unemployment funds to strikers is "an economic deterrent to growth."

Bell, who spent three days investigating conditions at Auburn Prison, called Ulster County's Wallkill State facility "the Hollywood prison system." We are lucky, he said, explaining that it was mainly due to the fact that the prisoners sent here are the least troublesome. He called the Auburn environment an unnatural society and told of a small militant minority penetrating the trouble. Reforms are necessary, he concluded.

Bell touched on transportation, calling for inexpensive mass transportation. He said he felt the new Chancellor, Ernest Boyer was getting the cooperation of the Legislature regarding problems in education and that Ulster County gets more in revenue from the state than it gives." I want to keep it that way," he concluded.

After 143 Years... Col. Few to Georgia

BEACON — The remains of Colonel William Few Jr., a Revolutionary War hero buried in Beacon 143 years ago, will be transferred to Georgia, where his most outstanding contributions were made.

He will be returned to Atlanta, Ga., by concurrent resolution of the New York Legislature and through resolve of the Georgia American Revolution Bicentennial Commission. The remains are being sent to Georgia because that is where "they may most appropriately be re-interred and memorialized," according to a the resolution, sponsored in the State Senate by Senators Jay P. Rolison (R-Poughkeepsie), and Dalwin J. Niles (R-Johnstown), and in the Assembly by Willis H. Stephens (R-Brewster).

Few, a statesman, soldier and banker, belonged to a Quaker family which emigrated from England in 1682 and settled in Pennsylvania for a number of years before moving to Baltimore, Md., where he was born on June 8, 1748. During childhood, he became inured to the hardships of frontier life and received a meager schooling at the hands of itinerant teachers. Legal problems and financial reverses resulted in the family's move to Georgia.

When the Revolution began, Few and his brothers became officers in the militia. In addition to his military activities during the Revolutionary Period, Colonel Few was twice a member of the General Assembly of Georgia, and a member of the executive council of that State. He served as Surveyor-General of Georgia, commissioner to the Indians, and a delegate to the Continental Congress.

In 1787 he was one of six Georgia delegates to the Philadelphia Convention which drafted the Constitution of the United States, and remained throughout the convention to the signing. As a member of his State's Convention he later worked for ratification. Few became one of the first United States senators sent from Georgia under the new Republic. His term expired in 1788 and he declined reelection, returning to Georgia to serve his fourth term in the State Assembly.

In 1799,at the age of 52, he moved to New York City where he practiced law and immediately assumed a position of importance. Within two years he was elected to the State Assembly and served four years to 1805. In additon to his political involvement and law practice, Colonel Few became associated with two banks. He served as director of the Manhattan Bank from 1804 to 1814 and during part of that time served as president of the City Bank of New York.

Following his public service in the State Assembly, Colonel Few served as a New York City Alderman, and as State Inspector of Prisons.

ELLENVILLE — Investigation of the reported theft of a student's wallet containing $112 and personal papers from a locker in the boy's gymnasium at the local high school, continued Saturday by police.

Bruce Myers of 15 Jean Street, this village, complained to police Thursday afternoon that he left his wallet containing the money, a social security card, driver's license and other papers in a locker while he took a shower. Coach Lines Files Petition

KINGSTON — Mountain View Coach Lines, which operates buses out of the Trailways Bus Terminal on Broadway, has petitioned the Public Service Commission to allow it an alternate route to avoid traffic on Albany Avenue.

A spokesman for Mountain View told The Freeman today that buses have been delayed for as much as an hour on Friday nights and on other nights between the hours of 4 and 6 p. m. by traffic jams on Albany Avenue. The firm is asking for an alternate route which would allow its buses to take the Route 209 bypass to the Route 28 Traffic Circle, down the Col. Chandler Drive and onto Broadway to the Trailways Bus Terminal.

A public hearing on the request for the alternate route, which will be used in conjunction with the present route, will be held in Albany before the PSC on Jan 28.

Joiners

Rondout Commandery 52, Knights Templar, will hold its regular meeting Wednesday, Jan. 26, at Masonic Temple, 31 Albany Avenue, at 7:30 p.m. with full form opening. Refreshments will be served in the dining room following meeting and all Sir Knights may attend.

Mr. J. Oliver Finds Way To Help Shrink Painful Swelling Of Hemorrhoidal Tissues

...caused by inflammation and infection.

Junction City, Kansas.—Mr. J. Oliver writes: "I couldn't get relief. Then I bought Preparation H. I surely recommend it. It's worth its weight in gold."

(Note: Doctors' tests have proved Preparation H® actually helps shrink swelling of hemorrhoidal tissues caused by inflammation. It's so effective that in many cases the first applications give prompt, temporary relief from pain and itching in such tissues. There's no other formula like Preparation H.)

NOTICE OF A PUBLIC HEARING TO BE CONDUCTED BY ASSOCIATED HOSPITAL SERVICE OF NEW YORK

(Greater New York's Blue Cross Plan)

Pursuant to subdivision 2-a (b) of Section 255 of the Insurance Law of the State of New York, notice is hereby given that a two-session public hearing will be held at the Auditorium, American Red Cross Building, 150 Amsterdam Avenue, New York, New York, commencing at 10:00 a.m. and 6:00 p.m. on Friday, February 4, 1972.

This public hearing will afford any interested person the opportunity to be heard by officials of Associated Hospital Service of New York on the following subjects affecting community-rated groups and subscribers in varying degrees by class of contract. The proposed rate changes do not affect subscribers who are experience-rated or covered under Senior Care contracts.

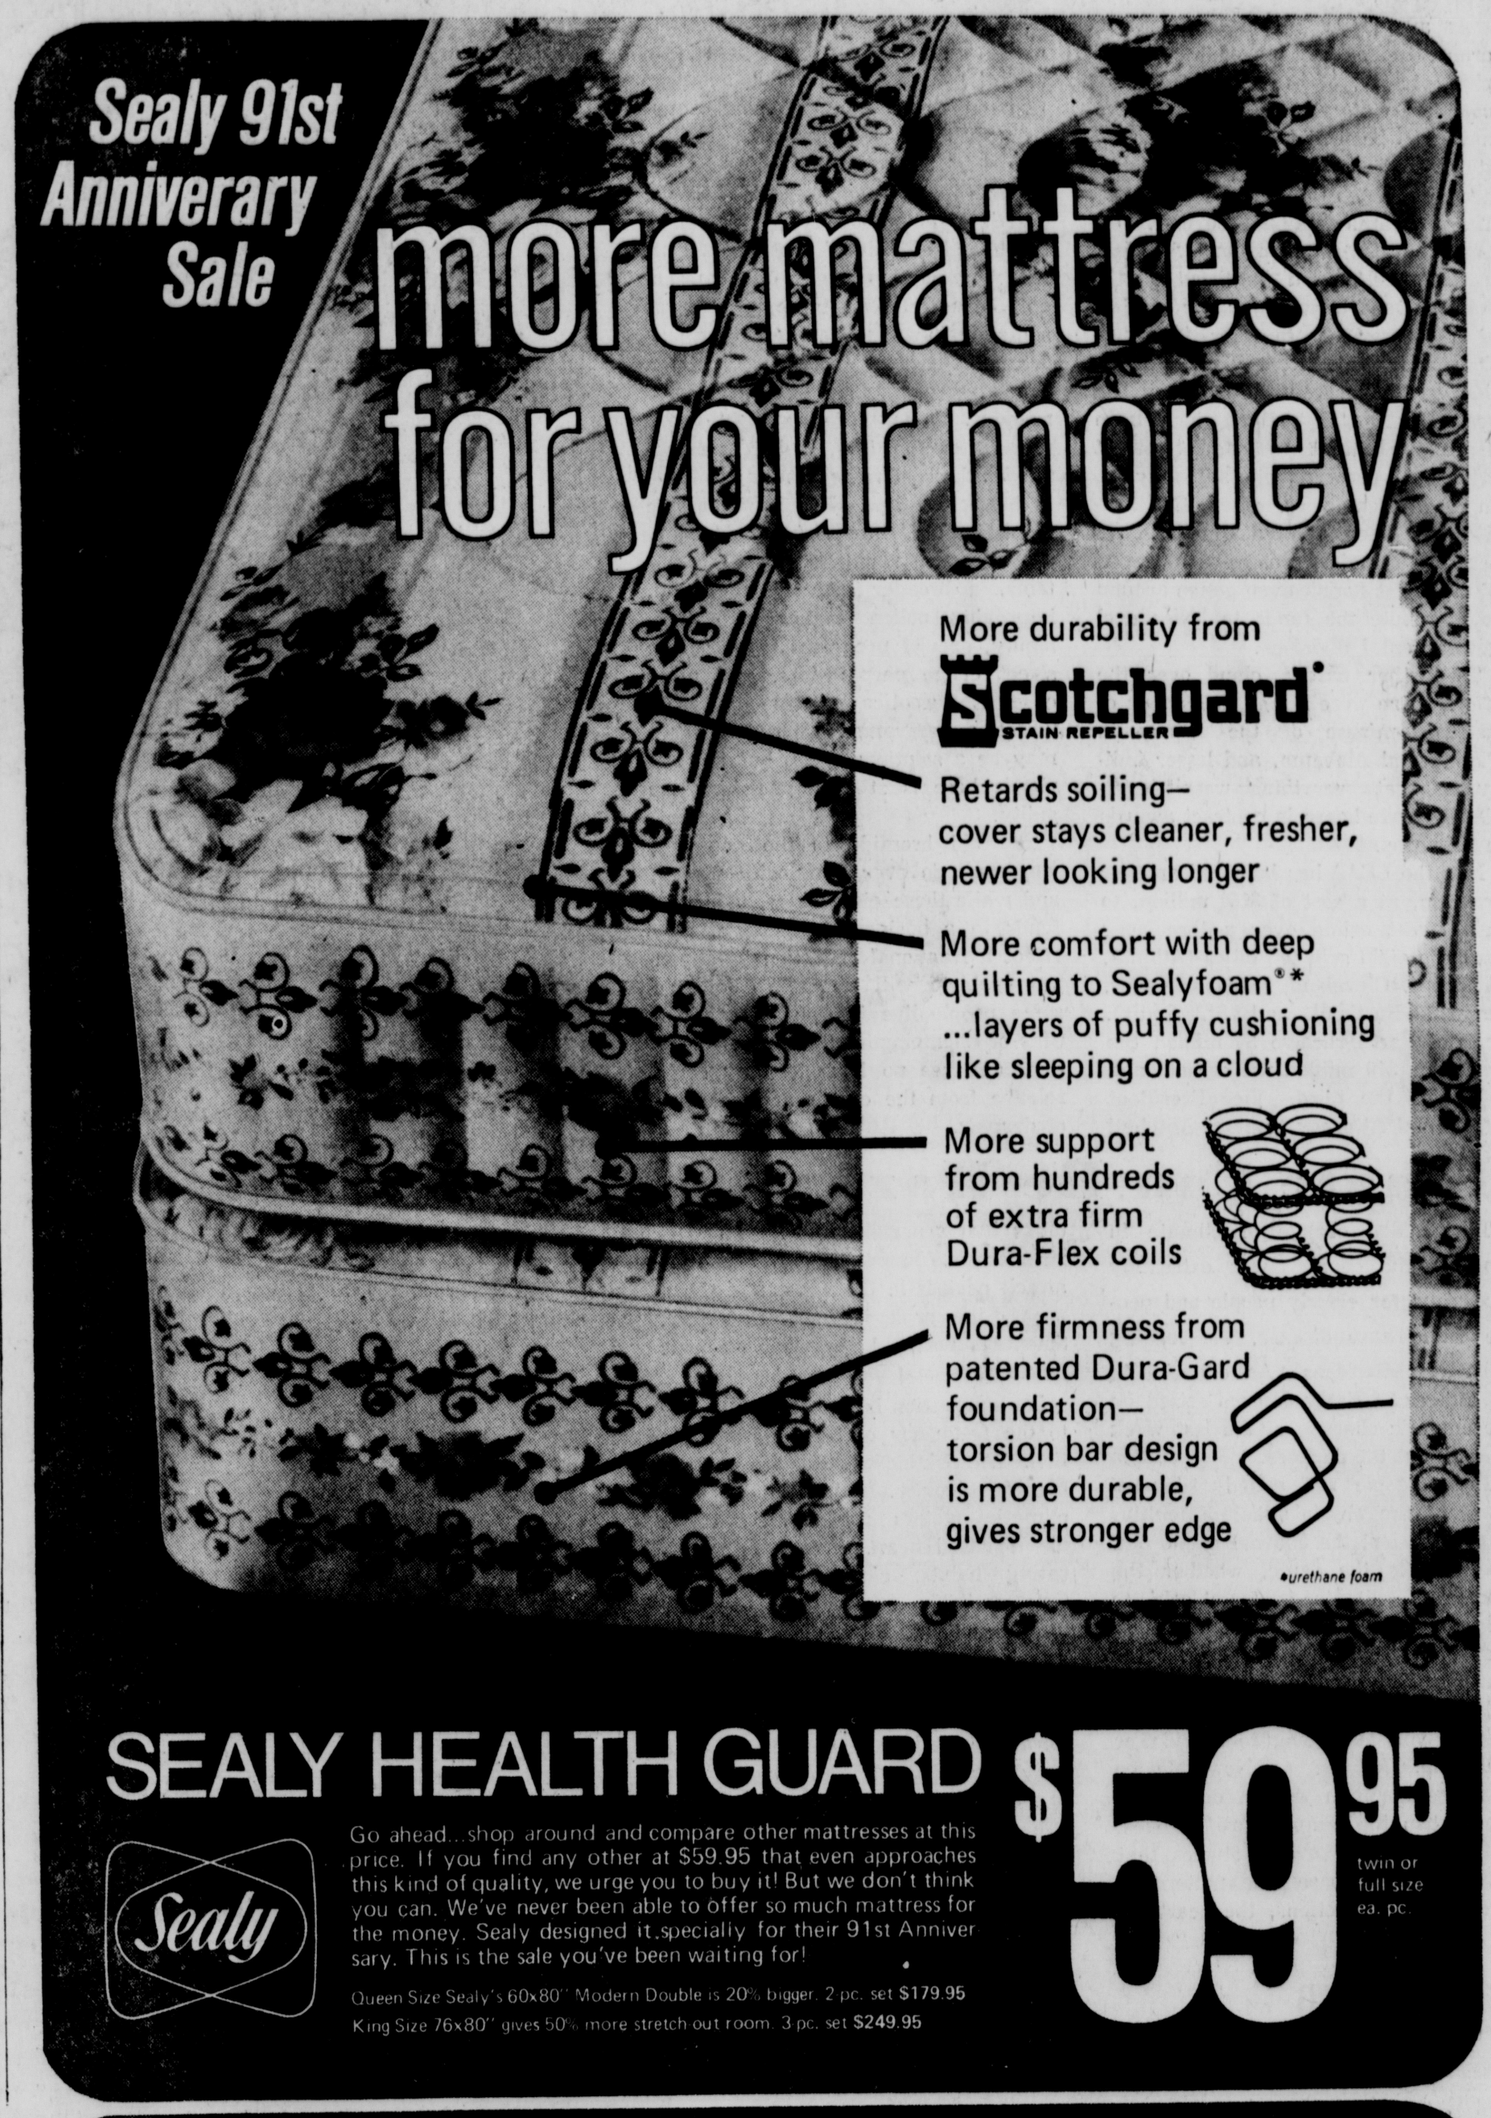

1. The application of AHS for increases in the schedule of rates to be paid by its community-rated subscribers effective May 1, 1972,
2. The application of AHS for new hemodialysis benefits,
3. The application of AHS for a provision effecting coordination of benefits for subscribers holding both AHS and other health coverage issued through a group, and
4. The replacement by AHS of Senior Care II contracts with new contracts which exclude the co-pay, out-of-hospital benefits added in 1969.

Vital to these considerations are the issues of hospital reimbursement, adherence to Federal Wage-Price Guidelines, AHS' actions to control hospital costs and AHS efforts to carry out the statutory mandate to pay only for the efficient production of hospital service and the necessary planning coordination and cooperation as regards private, public and voluntary health care facilities. Comments and thoughts on these subjects will be most welcome.

To help in scheduling — and for the convenience of all wishing to be heard, kindly call or write Mr. George Goodlett at the address shown below, giving him your name, address and affiliation.

This announcement of the hearing on the changes for which Associated Hospital Service of New York plans to seek approval is published to give notice to all who may wish to appear at the hearing. The detailed terms of the proposed changes as they may affect each individual and group, and as presently planned, are available on request at the address shown below:

Money No Cure-All

As a weapon in the fight against crime, money will never bring complete victory, or anything resembling complete victory. The federal government has been allocating funds to the state, which in turn are supposed to hand them on to cities and towns. The program, administered under the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration (LEAA), a segment of the Justice Department, was the subject of a House subcommittee investigation, and some interesting information was uncovered. Such as: a full year after $184 million had been handed to states to combat street crimes, 51 per cent was still unspent. In a different year, when $342 million had been allotted to states, 92 per cent remained unspent and seven of the states hadn't even gotten around to distribute the funds to lower-level governmental divisions.

To further cast a cloud over the effort, there were strong indications of scandals—misuse of the money—in Florida and Alabama, and lesser indications that everything wasn't completely above board in contract awards in Arkansas.

Now the LEAA has launched another program, at a cost of $160 million, to fight street crime over a three-year period in eight selected cities (Atlanta, Baltimore, Cleveland, Dallas, Denver, Newark, Portland and St. Louis). Each city will receive $5 million the first year, $10 million the second, and $5 million the third. Vice President Agnew and Attorney General Mitchell hope this plan will reduce street crime and burglaries by five per cent after two years—a revealing commentary on the efficacy of money as a panacea for lawlessness.

This latest program is being labeled a "high impact" campaign that is supposed to be "innovative, enlightened, tough and effective." But the skeptic will take a rain check on that, not only because the 50-state program was something less than a resounding success, but because the main thrust on the latest one appears to be toward rounding up and prosecuting the culprits after the fact, rather than attacking the conditions that impel people to break the law. For instance, the "high impact" blueprint calls for improved police radio and dispatch systems, a broader use of helicopters, improving police tactics and techniques, special programs to prosecute street crime perpetrators, and more efficient narcotics control and rehabilitation programs. Fine, and there may be a salutary effect, but the emphasis here is still on punishing the guilty.

The old bromide to the contrary, you can't do everything with money, and while these eight cities, using the funds in a businesslike fashion, may effect a fractional reduction in crime, the problem will persist so long as some people live in squalor, are victims of unemployment and discrimination, and see no hope for any early release from the chains and shackles of despair.

Climate Can Be Hazardous

The sudden change of climate in most of the country was extremely hazardous for elderly people and people with heart disease, the leading killer of Americans. An editorial in the American Heart Journal seized on the climatic changes of the last week to point out the dangers.

These people run added risks because of the physiological difficulties of acclimation, the Journal points out. The risk is the same, whether the change in climate is from cold to warm or hot to cold. It is the acute change in environmental temperature that seems to provoke the heart attack in both warm and cold climates.

So, if you are going to Florida or California, Arizona or New Mexico from the north in winter, don't rush down when the temperature changes.

It is based on several studies that have shown a seasonable pattern to myorcardiai infractions, the heart attacks that generally result from arteriosclerosis. In cold areas, the heart attack peak is in the winter; in warm areas, the peak is in the summer. Scientists do not know what accounts for the seasonal pattern.

One suggestion is that it may be due to the frequency of respiratory infection. The risk increases as the weather becomes colder. Others think that climatic factors mysteriously affect the diseased heart directly. Perhaps eating habits, clothing and spare-time activities contribute to it. Extreme cold raises the blood pressure. Exercise, on top of that forces arteries to carry too strong a rush of blood.

Flying between two regions cuts down the acclimatization period. At least a week and possibly two should be allowed from the mean temperature toward either colder or warmer conditions. Older people are more brittle. They don't acclimate as quickly as they did when younger.

Haunting Ghosts in Nixon's Past

WASHINGTON—Two ghosts from Richard Nixon's past have chosen an awkward moment to rattle their chains.

Just as the President is preening for his re-election campaign, the disembodied voice of phantom billionaire Howard Hughes and the mouthings of ex-labor lord Jimmy Hoffa have stirred old memories.

We have documentary evidence that the President has had a cozy relationship with both men in the past. The details don't make good political advertising in an election year.

The controversy over Hughes has revived our decade-old revelations about the $205,000 that he loaned to Nixon's brother Don. The loan was secured by a mortgage on Lot 10 on Whittier Boulevard in Whittier, Calif. No bank would have accepted this Nixon family plot as security for a $205,000 loan.

But at the time of the transaction, Richard Nixon was Vice President, and Howard Hughes was deep in dealings with the U.S. government. These dealings weren't likely to be hurt by the fact that the Nixon family was beholden to him financially.

Hughes sought to strengthen his ties with Nixon early in 1968 when Nixon was campaigning for the Republican presidential nomination. The subject came up in a handwritten exchange between Hughes and his aide-de-camp in Nevada, Robert Maheu. We have seen the memos, which are supposed to be under court seal in Nevada.

Hughes Helps Nixon

Hughes instructed Maheu on March 14, 1968: "I want you to go to see Nixon as my special confidential emissary. I feel there is a really valid possibility of a Republican victory this year. If that could be realized under our sponsorship and supervision every inch of the way, then we would be ready to follow with Laxalt as our next candidate."

Hughes referred to Paul Laxalt, then Governor of Nevada, whom the billionaire hoped to groom for bigger things.

We have evidence that $100,000 was siphoned off from the Silver Slipper casino and delivered to Nixon's crony, Bebe Rebozo, by Hughes's aide Richard Danner. The Silver Slipper is owned by Hughes as a personal holding, and its cash flow does not have to be recorded in corporate books.

Maheu and Danner refused to comment. Rebozo wouldn't take our calls.

We also have evidence that President Nixon's decision to let Jimmy Hoffa out of jail was the culmination of a long, secret friendship. We have seen correspondence that reveals Nixon was going to bat for the embattled Teamsters leader as far back as 1960.

Hoffa Letters

The letters were written to Hoffa by Nixon's old political crony, Oakley Hunter, who now heads the Federal National Mortgage Association.

In August of 1960, a federal grand jury in Orlando was about to indict Hoffa for misuse of union funds to promote a real estate development. Nixon, then Vice President, intervened with William Rogers, then Attorney General, to have the indictment held up.

This was political payment for Hoffa's backstage support of Nixon in his presidential race against the late John F. Kennedy. The Teamsters gave Nixon no public support, but Hoffa passed the word to his powerful lieutenants across the country to campaign for Nixon.

Once the election was over, Rogers went ahead with the indictment and Hoffa was furious. This caused Oakley Hunter to write his secret letters.

"I know for a fact," Hunter wrote to Hoffa, "that your side of the case was put before the Vice President and that he discussed the case with the Attorney General."

Hunter added that Nixon "has been sympathetic toward you and has felt that you were being subjected to undue harassment."

Now Nixon, after waiting in vain for the Parole Board to release Hoffa, has granted the tough Teamsters leader a presidential parole.

Footnote: Hughes was careful in 1968 to play both sides of the street. His lieutenants offered to subsidize Larry O'Brien so he could serve without pay as Democratic National Chairman during the 1968 campaign. Both Humphrey and O'Brien acknowledge the offer was made, but both insist O'Brien never drew a dime from the Hughes interests during the campaign. Several months later, however, he was retained by Hughes for a "substantial sum." Humphrey's son, Robert, was also employed by a Hughes company as a sales representative.

HAT HULLABALLOO—Capt. Raymond Hopkins, a 26-year-old black veteran of Vietnam, is being court-martialed because he wouldn't wear his hat. Hopkins' superiors for months have harassed him about his modified Afro hairdo, even though the Army admits it is within Army regulations. An NAACP branch and a black college student group are supporting Hopkins. The court-martial was demanded by a white WAC, Lt. Col. Jeane Wolcott, who claims her action against Hopkins has nothing to do with his race. But she concedes her single "order" to him to wear a hat was in a private chat. She admits that, without further warning, she demanded action against him when she spotted him a few days later outside without a hat.

LAND LOLLAPALOOZA — The Interior Department is investigating millions of acres in mining claims filed by an Oklahoma-based promoter who has tried to sell them for cabins, farms and the like. The promoter is Merle Zweifel, head of Zweifel International Prospectors. Interior's files show Nevada has indicted him "on 17 counts of trying to file false claims" and Interior itself is seeking a ruling that many of his claims are "null and void." Prodded by Sen. Lee Metcalf, D-Mont., Interior is investigating Zweifel's bizarre land schemes in Arizona, Nevada, Montana and Colorado.

Private School Funds

WASHINGTON — Probably one of the most pressing questions before Congress and the country today is how to finance private as well as public schools and take care of the constantly increasing enrollment of students and the multiplying costs of their education.

Congress is being urged by state and local officials to help the public schools expand as private schools begin to close for lack of funds and as the courts in some states have ruled that financing public schools through local property taxes is not constitutional.

Representative Roman C. Pucinski, Democrat of Illinois, chairman of the House General Subcommittee on Education, has introduced a bill which he believes will provide support for passage of a General Aid program for public schools that he sponsored last year. The new measure would permit a tax credit totaling 50 per cent of private school tuition, up to a maximum of $500 per child. This plan differs from proposals that such payments be made tax-deductible because the amount would be subtracted from taxes due rather than being included in an individual's total deductions. Mr. Pucinski says:

"I know from long experience that we must find some constitutional way to assist the nation's private schools before we can pass a general aid bill for public schools."

The General Aid Bill to which representative Pucinski refers would authorize federal funds sufficient to meet one third of the cost of operating public grade and high schools. Federal assistance now covers only about 7 per cent of the cost. Hearings will be opened soon on the whole problem. Mr. Pucinski declares:

"The time has come for the Federal Government to ease the crushing burden placed upon the shoulders of parents or private-school pupils."

The Illinois representative argues that, if private schools were to close, "the added burden on public funds by the end of the '70s would exceed $4 billion a year in operating costs alone, with an estimated $5 billion more for facilities."

Up to now, the question of helping the private schools has been considered primarily a matter of giving aid to religious schools, which has raised constitutional issues on separation of church and state. But the practical side of the problem is that, as private schools of all kinds close, the public schools find themselves faced with having to educate a greatly enlarged number of students. It would be less expensive to maintain the private schools by permitting tuition paid by the parents to be used to reduce their income taxes.

Many of our domestic problems are due to the increase in population each year. But the growth and expense this imposes on the educational system have too long been ignored. Currently, as private schools are closing, the public-school system is confronted with an almost impossible dilemma. Many communities are protesting because their property taxes are being raised to provide funds for public schools.

Parents of children attending private schools have argued that they should have some kind of tax break, since the public schools do not have to educate their children, though they themselves pay local school taxes along with all other citizens. Under the proposed plans, this would be accomplished without direct contributions being made by the Federal Government to non-public schools. The parents would continue to pay the costs for operation of private schools but get a tax credit for a part of the tuition. At the same time it is expected that a greater share of the expenses of the grade and high schools in the public educational system will be covered by federal funds.

The whole idea is to establish a federal-aid program designed to maintain public and private education in America financed directly or indirectly from tax money. Bills for this purpose have been introduced in Congress before, but it has not acted on them. There certainly will be more demands from the electorate this year that some action be taken. For not only have the private schools been closing, but the public schools are struggling with big financial problems, too.

The Hangups Some Editors Have

It is a mistake for the people to think of the press as a group of anonymous and monumental brains behind the headlines. Editors, in spite of what you may have heard to the contrary, are human. In a few cases, they are less.

The more suspicious they become of men and motives, the more easily gulled. Like cuckolded husbands who sit outside the locked boudoir, they forget to lift the rug inside to expose the trap door. It is in the conglomerate that editors become the watchdogs of the public welfare, which accounts for the blizzard of stories initiated and investigated by the press to be published, in time, as exposes.

I love my craft and respect my confreres, but my sense of humor represents an interposition of earthy laughter. I know an editor who sticks his hand out a window every half hour to see if it is raining. He is otherwise sane. He built a house for his wife, escorted her up the backstairs to a landing, then down the living room stairs, forgetting that the carpenters had not built them.

Another dearly beloved m.e. assures his staff, whenever the first edition starts to roll, that the vibration will, someday, disintegrate the steel beams and the whole building will collapse. His argument is that he once saw a glass of water shattered by sound.

An arch-conservative of the midwest, who thinks that Senator James Eastland of Mississippi is a flaming Communist, whispers to his rewrite men that, when he was young, he voted the straight socialist ticket. Another, who cannot parse a sentence, has a sign over his desk: "There will be no dangling particles in this newspaper." An illiterate press agent thought it was dirty.

A well-known sports editor met a stranger in a toga who introduced himself as Jesus Christ. "Glad to meetcha," said the hockey puck. "I've heard a lot aboutcha."

One of New York's editors believed that the only way to solve a murder was to ascribe all of them as the villainous work of the Detroit Purple Gang. He left standing orders to this effect, on the grounds that any true member of the Detroit Purple Gang was in no position to sue for defamation of character.

On a dull newsless day, Emile Gauvreau, long dead, ordered a reporter to go out on the fire escape and fire a shot through the window. It was done. The headline read: Underworld Tries to Intimidate Graphic.

There was a telegraph editor who used to go into the can at 9 p.m., down a pint of whiskey in a gulp, and be smashed by 9:12. The night the Nazis invaded Denmark, he took a look at the flash and gurgled: "Quick! Who do we know in Copenhagen?"

At parties most editors are dull guests because they hold the cocktail, don a patient smile, and are fearful of responding to any public question for fear of being lynched in a living room. To say nothing is to cloak oneself in intellectual mystery; to open one's mouth is to prance nude before one's peers.

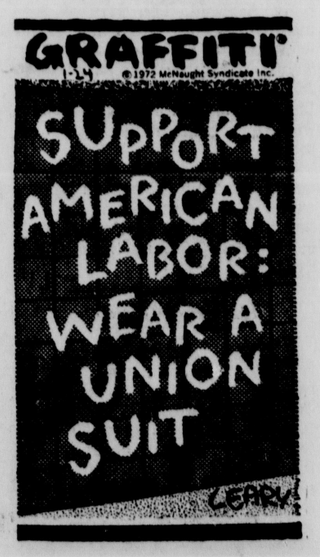

To see an editor or writer at his worst, look at any television couch show and listen to the stuttering equivocation of a man without a script. The politician, it should be stated, is a shade worse. He is so busy trying to divine what he is expected to say that he stands on his tongue. Women editors have the gift of prattling on and on without having said anything.

I have never known an editor who would take money to kill a story, and but one writer who would accept a gift for a mention in his column. That one has been out of business a long time. Ironically, his normally suspicious boss refused to ponder how the man owned so much real estate on such a small income. But—that's the boudoir again.

I've been trapped. A Minneapolis reader sent a touching story about a man and a dog. I reworte it, and gave him full credit. Within a week, two dozen readers sent letters calling me a plagiarist, a crook, and other things. My reader had copied it from the Reader's Digest.

Twice I have almost republished offerings which, on investigation, turned out to be the original property of O. Henry and Guy de Maupassant. As a newspaper editor, I once published the story of two ladies who flew a single-engine plane from St. Louis to Rio de Janeiro.

It was great copy, until I learned that, at takeoff time, both burst into tears and refused to get in the plane. So, dear hearts, when you think of editors, do not dwell upon faceless genius, but rather on worrisome balding family men who understand the word deadline is to be interpreted literally and personally . . .

Army to Viet Harlots...Welcome, But Please Sign In

QUI NHON, Vietnam (UPI)—The U.S. Army has opened its gates to Vietnamese prostitutes at several bases in South Vietnam and Army spokesman said such a thing is apparently all right by current regulations.

But officers said there are considerable security risks and a strong possibility of narcotics smuggling. Many said they support the practice anyway to keep peace within increasingly disgruntled ranks of the Americans still left in Vietnam.

Spokesman at U.S. Army headquarters in Long Binh outside Saigon said they were unable to say whether the practice is being followed all over Vietnam. However they did cite a far more restrictive regulation permitting "local national guests" to enter Long Binh itself. That was issued two weeks ago.

So far the allowing of prostitutes on bases has been limited to bases along South Vietnam's central coast. The gates of military posts in Binh Dinh province 250 miles northeast of Saigon, were opened to such "guests" several weeks ago. No one at Qui Nhon is either able or willing to provide a specific date but the new practice came more than a year after all towns in the area were put off limits to soldiers except on official business.

It came less than four months after the army itself erected a steel wall at the Cam Ranh Bay Base, 140 miles south of Qui Nhon, for the announce purpose of keeping out prostitutes and drug sellers.

The girls, clad in the same kind of mod clothes they used to wear when they worked in the now mostly boarded up bars in downtown Qui Nhon, cluster nightly at the gates of Quincy compound, headquarters of the Qui Nhon Army Support Command, and at gates of other bases nearby.

As many as 50 or 60 girls stand across the street from the gate on a typical evening and solicit GIs who pass. The soldiers are allowed to sign the women onto the bases as a "local national guest" on an official army roster. The girls can then go with the GIs to movies, clubs or to their rooms in the barracks.

"Hi GI! I your numbah one girl!" the girls call to the troops as they leave the base.

The risk of security violations arises from the fact that the girls need produce no more than a Vietnamese government identity cards —something Viet Cong agents can get —in order to be admitted to a base. Although they are barred from operations centers they can move around freely enough on bases to be able to observe defenses and the condition and position of war equipment.

An Army spokesman said policy "is strictly up to the local commanders."

"Of course we know that these girls are not coming on the bases to go square dancing," the spokesman said.

Tumultuous Welcome for 'Screaming Eagles'

SAN MATEO, Calif. (UPI)—Vietnam veterans from the Army's famed "Screaming Eagles" airborne unit gave their combat gear to the children of San Mateo Sunday.

"Here, sonny, put this on," one soldier clad in jungle fatigues said as he strapped a web belt on Mark Clifford, 7. "I've had it long enough."

Scores of other boys wore helmets, ammunition belts and canteens presented to them by the men of Company A, 321st Infantry Battalion, 101st Airborne Division.

The 113 combat veterans of the company that was "adopted" by San Mateo four years ago turned over their gear to the children during a welcome home that has seldom been equalled since World War II.

Welcome home ceremonies were held at the ball park. After the speeches, the children stepped forward to shake hands with the GIs. In addition to the combat gear, many of the children sought and received the unit's "Screaming Eagle" shoulder patch.

The men in the company, which was adopted by the city after a local soldier wrote home and said his buddies received little mail, were surprised and grateful for the welcome home.

"It's the most fantastic thing my troops or myself have ever seen in our lives," said Capt. C. R. Quigley of Bountiful, Utah, the commanding officer. "We just can't express our gratitude enough."

After the parade and a party at the ballpark, the officers and men were invited to dinner with families in the area.

Several soldiers said they were grateful for the three-day civic welcome but were anxious to get home.

"They really have given us a welcome we could hardly expect," said Sgt. Fred Jaminet of Cherokee, Iowa. "But I'm anxious to get home."

"There's a lot of really nice people here," said Spec. 4 Russell Carney, 20, Hubbard, Ohio. "But I want to get back to my car at home and get some girls."

'Violence Will Not Stop Book'...Hughes Author

IBIZA, Spain (UPI)—Clifford Irving, 41, looked out over the blooming almond tress on the Mediterranean island where he is waiting for the storm over his book on Howard Hughes to blow over.

"I will remain here until I am called back to New York for what I consider a valid reason," Irving said Sunday in an interview.

He said "ruthless and unscrupulous people" were trying to discredit the book on Hughes. Irving edited the book.

"Violence against me would not stop the publication of this book," said Irving at his home on this island off Spain's Mediterranean coast.

"These people are trying to discredit me so that when the book comes out, people will say, 'it may be true and it may not be true,'" he said.

"But when this book is read, there will be no doubt in the reader's mind that it is Howard Hughes speaking. Violence against me will not stop McGraw-Hill and Time-Life," he added.

McGraw-Hill, Inc., a New York publishing firm and Time-Life have paid $650,000 for publication rights but have postponed previously announced publication dates because of the controversy. A man identified as Hughes, speaking with seven newsmen who had known him previously, denied in a telephone conversation that he had done an autobiography, authorized a biography or received any of the $650,000 in checks made payable to him.

Irving arrived in Ibiza Friday night after leaving New York at the height of the controversy over the book. His lawyer, Martin S. Ackerman, had said earlier that Irving would return to New York by today.

Some Political Caution

By United Press International

Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield says Sen. Edmund S. Muskie's apparent early lead for the Democratic presidential nomination is in jeopardy. Rep. John M. Ashbrook, R-Ohio, says President Nixon needs conservatives to win in November.

While Mansfield and Ashbrook were raising notes of caution Sunday, Sen. George S. McGovern won liberal Democratic support in two states and Gov. George C. Wallace and Mayor John V. Lindsay prepared to square off in Florida.

"I think Muskie's lead will be bitten into," said Mansfield, without mentioning the names of the opponents he said would cause the contest "to develop into a horserace." Mansfield was interviewed on ABC-TV's "Issues and Answers."

Ashbrook said even if his bid to wrest the GOP nomination from Nixon fails, the President "cannot possibly win the election without the wholehearted support, the enthusiastic support" of conservative Republicans.

Ashbrook told UPI in an interview that his main goal in running as a conservative GOP candidate in the New Hampshire primary is to offset the liberal challenge of Rep. Paul N. McCloskey, R-Calif., and to push Nixon more to the right.

McGovern, D-S.D., won endorsements Sunday from the 4,500 member Pennsylvania New Democratic Coalition and the Florida Coalition of Concerned Democrats.

RONDOUT VALLEY TEACHERS CANCEL FACULTY PLAY

Stone Ridge, New York

An annual event which has become a local tradition is about to be interrupted. The Rondout Valley Teachers Association has just announced that it will not present a faculty play this year. This breaks a string of ten successive and successful plays and musicals which have been staged by the teachers, often to SRO audiences, over the last decade.

The efforts by the faculty, often with participatory support of students, parents and friends, resulted in the presentation of such crowd-pleasers as L'il Abner, Teahouse of the August Moon, South Pacific, Guys and Dolls, Flower Drum Song, Oklahoma, and last year's memorable Music Man.

Profits realized from the performances over the years netted more than $20,000 for the RVTA Scholarship Fund, which has been and is being used to grant scholarships to over 40 Rondout Valley students preparing to enter the teaching profession.

The main reason for the cancellation is the fact that the production and the presentation of the play normally coincide with the time when professional negotiations between the Board of Education and the faculty reach their most difficult stage. This coming spring, more than ever before, the teachers will need to give singleminded support to their negotiating team so that the talks will succeed this year.

It is not widely known, but a fact, that Rondout teachers are presently working without a contract. This situation developed after the Board deleted two items of major professional importance from last year's agreement, namely a class size article and the summer stipend program, and then used its powers under the Taylor Law to force a settlement on the teachers.

It would be unrealistic to assume that this action by the Board has not affected faculty morale at Rondout. Although teachers are meeting their educational responsibilities with as much energy and dedication as ever, it has become difficult for many to muster enthusiasm for extra activities, such as the play, when there are other matters of importance to be resolved.

It should be emphasized that scholarships will be awarded as planned to deserving seniors this spring, and that the teachers hope to be back on stage next year.

City Man Killed In County Mishap

KINGSTON — A 24-year-old man was fatally injured at 10:40 p.m. Saturday when the 1964 sedan he was driving skidded out of control on Route 9W in the Town of Saugerties and slammed into a rock ledge.

Saugerties Town Police identified the man as Lewis Hartrum Jr., of 478 Broadway, Kingston. He was taken to Benedictine Hospital where he died at about 5 p.m. Sunday, according to police.

A report of Sergeant John Pavlak and Patrolman Clark Johnson of the Saugerties Town Police, Hartrum was traveling south on Route 9W when the car went out control about one mile south of the Glasco Turnpike. Police said the man suffered severe lacerations of the brain and other injuries.

Hartrum was Ulster County's second traffic fatality of 1972. The second traffic death in the county in 1971 occurred on Pancake Hollow Road, Highland. A 29-year-old Plattekill man lost his life in that accident.

Another weekend accident in the area occurred Sunday morning on the State Thruway north of Kingston. Janet Saetta, 14, of 1099 Wavery Avenue, Holtsville, L. I., a passenger in one car involved was taken to Benedictine Hospital by Doctor's Ambulance and treated for scalp lacerations and shock. Details of the accident were not available.

Egyptian Students Demonstrate in Cairo

CAIRO (UPI)—Thousands of Egyptian students demanding instant war with Israel and a toughter policy against the United States rampaged through the streets of Cairo today and hurled stones at police. Police dispersed them with tear gas.

The demonstrations began early in the day at Cairo University where police expelled several hundred students holding a sit-in there and arrested student leaders. The campuses of Cairo University and Ein Shams University were sealed off.

Students poured into the streets, and a group estimated at between 7,000 and 8,000 gathered outside Cairo University and began throwing stones at police. The students then scattered through the city and a group which swelled to an estimated 12,000 gathered at Tahrit (Liberation) Square—Cairo's main plaza.

They waved placards reading: Police have arrested 1,500 students today."

From 10,000 to 15,000 students milled around the square in front of the Hilton Hotel protesting the arrest of student leaders. Some began a sitdown on the sidewalks and in the streets to protest President Anwar Sadat's "no war, no peace" policy against Israel.

Black uniformed regular policemen and an elite squad, the Central Security Police, surrounded the square but made no attempt to interfere. The Cairo police force was put on full alert but the army was not called in. Cairo, a city of 5 million, is ringed by army camps.

Holdup Man Killed In Upstate Shootout

RENSSELAER, N.Y. (UPI)—A hold - up man was shot to death and the man who shot him was wounded by the son of the proprietor of the store being robbed, police said Sunday.

Bradley Stone, 19, of Albany, was killed by a single bullet from a 32-calibre pistol fired by John E. Gonzales, 47, of Albany, who, police said, saw Stone and another man attempting to hold up a liquor store Saturday night.

Gonzales, who had been in the store, reportedly re-entered the establishment with the gun after he saw the attempted holdup of Jon A. Amodeo, 34, of Castleton, son of the store owner.

Police said Stone turned with a 22-calibre pistol in hand and Gonzales shot him in the stomach. At the same time Amodeo fired a 16 - gauge shotgun and some of the pellets struck Gonzales.

Stone's accomplice fled in a car with two other men.

Gonzales was reported in fair condition in Albany Medical Center Hospital.

Vandals Cut Phone Service

NEWBURGH, N. Y. (UPI)—Damage caused by vandals resulted in a loss of telephone service to about 750 customers here and 500 in the nearby Town of Cornwall Sunday, police said.

In the Newburgh incident, a flamable liquid was poured into a junction box and set afire, resulting in damage to telephone cables that served the some 750 Newburgh residents.

A New York Telephone Co. spokesman said efforts were underway to restore the service sometime late today.

In the Cornwall vandalism, a cable leading from an underground connection to a pole was cut with an axe. Telephone company supervisory personnel repaired the damage late Sunday afternoon.

Police said they did not know the identity of the vandals.

New York State locals of the Communications Workers of America have been on strike against the telephone company since last July and there have been various acts of vandalism which the company has blamed on union members.

Workers Stymie Spread of Oil In Hudson River

COEYMANS, N.Y. (AP) — There was no "significant accumulation" of oil in the Hudson River early today 25 miles downstream from this Albany county river town where an estimated 90,000 gallons of home heating fuel leaked from a ruptured tank Thursday, the Coast Guard said.

A Coast Guard spokesman said the construction of a dam had stopped "all sources" of leakage from the ruptured tank at the Powell and Minnock Brick Works. Some 30,000 to 50,000 gallons are believed to have flowed into the Hudson.

The dam blocks off a cove near the storage tank where a large portion of the oil was trapped by ice. The spokesman said the ice was being broken up and the oil vacuumed and soaked from the cove.

A private contractor, hired to construct the dam and complete the cleanup operation, is expected to finish removing the remaining 30,000 gallons in the storage tank early today.

Air Strike Costs Soviet Fisherman Cancer Race

NEW YORK (AP) — Only hours before elaborate plans to return him to Russia from here could be affected, Yuri Lyubov succumbed to cancer and died at sea.

Lyubov, 37, was informed last week by doctors in Nova Scotia and by the physician on his Soviet fishing trawler that he had terminal cancer and would not live out the month.

The ill seaman tried desperately to fly home from Canada, but all flights to and from the country were grounded by a strike of air controllers.

The Coast Guard was contacted and a cutter dispatched to meet the trawler seven miles offshore at Ambrose Light. He would have been brought to Fort Tilden in Brooklyn, then taken by ambulance to Kennedy airport for an Aeroflot flight home.

Showdown in Senate On Job Bias Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate reaches a showdown today on the issue of what kind of enforcement powers to give the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission.

The Senate Labor Committee has approved a bill that would give the commission authority to issue cease-and-desist orders against job discrimination.

But the House voted last September to require the commission to seek the desist orders from a federal court. And Sen. Peter H. Dominick, R-Colo., is sponsoring an administration-backed amendment that would change the Senate bill to agree with the House version.

President Nixon reiterated his preference for the House version in his State of the Union message last week.

Dominick said the amendment would provide for fairer and more effective enforcement.

Supporters of the amendment contend that an investigative and enforcement agency should not also have judicial powers. They also say that cases could be disposed of more quickly in the courts than by the EEOC, which had a backlog of 32,000 complaints as of last June 30.

The EEOC must rely on persuasion and conciliation at present.

Another major issue before the Senate is the bill's extension of the EEOC's jurisdiction to include state and local government agencies, educational institutions and firms with as few as eight persons.

The measure passed by the House provides for no broadening of the present coverage. The EEOC currently has jurisdiction over firms with 25 or more employes.

Gromyko in Tokyo To Exchange Views

TOKYO (AP) — Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko opened a campaign in Tokyo today to take advantage of Japan's displeasure with President Nixon's recent economic and China policy actions.

Gromyko met with Foreign Minister Takeo Fukuda to "exchange views on international problems of concern to both sides," an official statement said. Japanese newspapers speculated that the talks would center on the implications of President Nixon's trip to Peking next month.

Gromyko arrived in Japan Sunday for a six-day visit, resuming consultations that the Soviet and Japanese foreign ministers were supposed to have held every year. They have not met since 1967, and western sources in Moscow consider that the Soviet government is resuming the consultations because it sees an opportunity to profit from Japanese resentment at President Nixon's tough economic policies toward Japan and displeasure at Nixon's failure to give Japanese Prime Minister Eisaku Sato ample advance warning of the shift in his China policy.

The sources in Moscow also believe that the Kremlin is concerned by Japanese actions to improve relations with Peking and wants to balance this by strengthening ties between Moscow and Tokyo.

The Soviets have said they want to renew discussions of a World War II peace treaty with Japan although they have indicated unwillingness to listen to the Japanese claims to islands off northern Japan which the Soviets seized at the end of World War II. Japanese newspapers said the Foriegn Ministry hopes Gromyko will announce a change in the Soviet position in view of the recent developments in this part of the world.

Gromyko is also expected to discuss the possibility of Japanese financial assistance in the development of coal and other minerals in eastern Siberia and the export of these minerals to Japan.

Police arrested 11 Japanese ultra-rightists who tried to storm into Gromyko's hotel Sunday night with handbills. Gromyko and his wife had already gone to bed, and the demonstrators were stopped at the main gate to the hotel.

Bus-Car Crash Claims 2 Lives

ALBURG, Vt. (UPI)— A Keesville, N.Y. man and his daughter were killed and four other members of the family injured, three critically, Saturday when their car collided with a bus near the New York - Vermont line.

David Stewart, 47, and his daughter, Patti, 16, died in the crash. Mrs. Joan Stewart, 42, and two daughters, Jeannie, 5, and Ann, 11, were reported in critical condition in Burlington Medical Center.

Another daughter, Rita, 13, was less seriously inured.

Police said the bus apparently was struck by a gust of wind and swerved into the Stewart vehicle.

Training Pays Off; Boys Kill Intruders

DETROIT (UPI) —"I taught my boys how to use guns when they were just little tots," Charles Medley said of his sons, Charles, 12, and Gary, 8.

Medley's instructions paid off during the weekend when a young bandit and his girl friend invaded the Medley home.

Seeing their mother threatened, the boys got out a .38-caliber pistol and two shotguns, wounded the gunman and fatally shot his girl friend.

"He was hurting my mother and she was screaming. We had to do something," Gary said.

What they didn't discover until later was that the assailant had a starter's pistol which wouldn't fire bullets.

Police said Robert Baker, 19, and his girl friend, Angela Bryant, 17, appeared at the Medley home Saturday afternoon while Medley, 49, was at the barber. When Mrs. Medley answered the door, Baker and Miss Bryant forced their way inside, police said.

Medley's wife, Edith, 52, told police Baker put a pistol to her head and said, "Don't do anything or I'll blow your brains out."

When the Medley boys saw what was happening, they went for their father's guns while a sister, Jill, 12, ran next door to call police.

Baker asked Miss Bryant for her six-inch knife when he saw the two boys return with the guns, police said.

But before she could hand it over, Gary pulled the trigger on one of the shotguns, killing Miss Bryant.

Charles, taking care not to hit his mother, emptied the revolver at Baker, grazing him in the arm once, while Gary fired two shotgun blasts.

Later, the senior Medley said, "I trust my boys with guns more than I trust some other people. They don't touch them unless I tell them to. Except this time it was an emergency."

Saugerties Legion Auxiliary Canvassing for March of Dimes

Members of the American Legion Auxiliary, Unit 72, of Lamouree-Hackett Post, Saugerties, are concentrating their efforts this month on the fund raising campaign for the National Foundation, March of Dimes, and will be canvassing the village and town residential areas during this week.

At a recent auxiliary meeting Mrs. Evelyn Carnright, president, announced that Mrs. Rita Sachs and Mrs. Jacqueline Rea had volunteered to co-chair the project. They were immediately offered assistance by other members in attendance. Proclamations designating January as March of Dimes month have been made by Mayor Neil Cox of the Village and Supervisor Mike Schovel of the Town of Saugerties. Canisters have been placed in many business establishments and a special cake is now in the window of The Corner Bakery, corner of Partition and Jane Streets, where people may drop dimes or coins of larger denominations in the icing to aid the fund. This generosity of the proprietors, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Genthner, has been a tradition since the auxiliary started sponsoring the March of Dimes campaign in Saugerties.

Canvassers are requested to meet at the Legion Hall on Sunday, Jan. 30, between the hours of 3 and 7 p.m. to turn in their collections.

In other business at the monthly meeting it was noted that there are now 86 paid-up members with some 18 still delinquent, which prevents the unit from meeting the quota set by the county for membership. Mrs. Catherine VanGaasbeek, membership chairman, may be reached at her home on Lafayette Street to receive dues payable.

Mrs. Ann Johnson, chaplain, reported that plants had been sent out at Christmas time in remembrance to five Gold Star Mothers and six to churches of those who are deceased.

Collection of paperback books, games, puzzles and other items continues for the veterans at the Albany Veterans Hospital. Wool scarves are being made by members for veterans leaving the hospital to wear during the cold season, as are afghans and wool blankets. All donations may be left at the Legion Home anytime.

Dear Abby
BY ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Your recent article on the subject of spoiling grandchildren hit home with me.

Several years ago I had a discussion with my father-in-law on the subject. His point of view was brief and to the point. He said, "There are three points which you should understand: First, it's my money; second, it's my grandchild; and third, it's none of your business in the first place."

Having said his piece, the subject was closed. Looking back, I find myself in complete agreement. Care to comment?

R. B. G., FORT MEYERS, FLA.

DEAR R. B. G.: Yes, I would have responded with "three points" of my own: "First, it's my child; second, my child is more important to me than your money; third, the welfare of my child is my FIRST concern, and as long as I'm alive and mentally competent, that's the way it will be."

Then I would add, "C'mon, Dad, let's compromise, and give the kid more love than anything else — at least until he can handle it, O.K.?"

DEAR ABBY: I feel a problem coming soon. Our daughter (brainy, taught math at college last year) and her husband (ditto, teaches computer science) are coming to spend two weeks with us.

My husband is not anticipating their visit with the same joy as I. The three of them get into these hot political debates in which everyone loses his cool and nobody wins. After their last visit everyone was worn out.

My husband is hawkish and they are dovish. I keep out of it, because if I took sides, I'd have to oppose my husband which wouldn't help our marital relations.

I know my daughter would like to avoid these arguments, but my husband honestly believes he can enlighten those "poor misguided boobs." And they feel the same about him.

What to do? Or how to keep the peace?

PEACE LOVER

DEAR PEACE LOVER: When people with conflicting political views get together, if they speak their minds (and why shouldn't they?) a "hot" debate inevitably ensues. The loss of "cool" seems to be the problem here. Perhaps last year's experience can be avoided by cautioning your husband to control his temper, and giving your daughter and her husband the same advice.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

For Abby's new booklet, "What Teen-Agers Want to Know," send $1 to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069.

STYLING FOR YOUNG GIRLS

It's time to train your daughter to develop a regular hair care program. The fundamentals necessary to cultivate are the same for children as for their elders. The cut is most important, with the final look determined by shape and length. Young girls should follow their natural look as closely as possible. If hair is thick, a blunt cut is suggested. Fine hair may require a light body wave to add bounce. Curly hair is left that way and cut in layers for best effect.

Stress the importance of clean hair and of combing and brushing it daily to maintain that shiny, healthy look. Let her come to us for cutting, shaping and waving. Carousel Coiffures, Phyllis and Fran, 702-C Broadway, Kingston. 331-9330.

AFC Stars Beat NFC, 26-13

Jan Overcame His Doubts

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Jan Stenerud, his first two field goal attempts failing, wondered wehther he belonged in the Pro Bowl with the elite of the National Football League.

The nightmare of losing pro football's longest game also lingered.

Stenerud proved he belongs.

Goat of the Kansas City-Miami double sudden-death overtime 27-24 Chiefs' defeat last month because he missed two field goals, Stenerud was voted offensive player of 22nd annual Pro Bowl Sunday.

His four field goals helped the American Conference topple the National Conference 26-13. The 26-year-old Norwegian soccer-style place kicker said he wasn't alone in doubting his ability.

"I heard some people in the stands saying, 'What are you doing in this game?" Stenerud said, "and I had some thoughts about that myself after I missed that second field goal."

His first field goal attempt, from 38 yards out was partially blocked by Detroit middle linebacker Mike Lucci. His second attempt, also in the first quarter, sailed wide of the uprights from 28 yards away.

"I was very glad I got another chance," Stenerud said. "As it is I kind of redeemed myself. I'm looking forward to next season now."

His field goals, from 25, 23, 48 and 42 yards, along with Kansas City quarterback Len Dawson's five-yard touchdown pass to Cleveland's Milt Morin, gave the AFC a 19-6 lead with nine seconds gone in the fourth quarter.

The NFC, which defeated the AFC 27-6 last year in the first Pro Bowl since the merger, had scored first on a 50-yard pass from Detroit's Greg Landry to Minnesota's Bob Grim. It narrowed the gap to six points with almost eight minutes to play in the game when San Francisco's Vic Washington swept left end untouchded for two yards.

But the AFC marched 73 yards in 12 plays, all on the ground and including 42 yards in seven carries by Eugene "Mercury" Morris of Miami. Victory was assured with 1:22 left when Denver's Floyd Little scored on a six-yard run.

AFC Coach Don McCafferty of Baltimore said he was tired of AFC vs. NFC discussion.

But Morris wasn't: "We're always at war with the NFC. We always have to prove ourselves."

"The players weren't really up for this game, not like a regular game," said Stenerud. "It was a very relaxed atmosphere. But I still think we wanted this one a lot more than they did."

Miami's Bob Griese started for the AFC at quarterback and turned the tables on Roger Staubach, Dallas quarterback in the 24-3 Super Bowl victory over the Dolphins.

Griese hit on eight of 16 passes for 114 yards, four of them going to follow Dolphin Paul Warfield for 75 yards, and Staubach completed just one of six passes for 14 yards as each played about half the game.

ONE OF FOUR — Jan Stenerud kicks one of his four field goals to lead his American League team to a 26-13 win over the Nationals. Stenerud, the goat of the Kansas City Chiefs' playoff loss to Miami, was named the outstanding offensive player of the game. Holding the ball is Len Dawson. (UPI)

Knicks Nip Sonics

SEATTLE (AP) — A second-half Seattle rally failed to make up a 20-point halftime deficit as the New York Knicks held on for a 101-99 National Basketball Association victory Sunday.

Reserve guard Earl Monroe scored a season-high 27 points in sparking the Knicks to the win.

Monroe hit 16 of his points in the second quarter, as the Knicks moved to a 54-34 lead at intermission.

Seattle's futile rally was led by guard Dick Snyder, who scored 15 points. Lee Winfield's field goal with 13 seconds left brought the Sonics to within two at 101-99, but Seattle turned the ball over with less than five seconds left and lost a chance to tie the game.

New York broke the game open in the second quarter as Seattle made just 28 per cent from the field and gave up 16 turnovers in the first half which yielded 13 points for the Knicks.

Pistol Pete is hotter than a firecracker . . . on Sundays.

Pete Maravich, one of Atlanta's top gunners, admits he can't play "consistently every night" because he still is underweight from a battle with mononucleosis last fall. But on Sundays, he's dynamite.

On Sunday, he fired in 35 points, including 14 in the final five minutes, as the Hawks outshot Milwaukee's defending National Basketball Association champions 118-113. The previous Sunday, Maravich triggered another Atlanta victory with a pro career high of 50 points.

After his sizzling performance against the Bucks, the weary Maravich said: "I was very tired at the end. I'm playing at full strength for 184 pounds, but I was down 26 pounds, and I'm still down 18 pounds."

Despite his admitted physical weakness, Maravich showed no signs of weariness on the court. After Milwaukee had cut an Atlanta 17-point third-quarter lead to 100-97 with 5:17 remaining, the on-target Pistol popped in 14 of the Hawks' last 18 points.

Elsewhere in the NBA Sunday, Boston beat Portland 115-105, New York edged Seattle 101-99, Houston nipped Detroit 109-107 and Baltimore blasted Cincinnati 132-101.

The red-hot Maravich hit 10 field goals and 15 of 15 free throws. He also had a career high of 14 assists.

Lou Hudson added 31 points and Walt Bellamy 25 for the Hawks. Kareem Jabbar topped Milwaukee with 33 points and Oscar Robertson scored 24.

Boston's John Havlicek, playing his 10th season in the NBA, moved into 11th place on the all-time scoring list with a career total of 16,289 points by connecting for 24 against Portland. He moved ahead of Paul Arizin, who amassed 16,266.

Dave Cowens paced the Celtics with 26 points and 15 rebounds, while Portland's Sidney Wicks tallied 25 points.

Baltimore, led by Archie Clark's 26 points, broke loose for 43 points in the fourth quarter to rout the Royals. Cincinnati's Nate Archibald was the game's high scorer with 28 points.

Stu Lantz poured in 32 points and rookie Mike Newlin contributed 26, leading Houston's victory over Detroit. Dave Bing led the Pistons with 3).

In the NBA Saturday, it was: Cincinnati 113, Cleveland 96; Chicago 115, Houston 108; Baltimore 116, Portland 99; Golden State 113, Philadelphia 106, and Phoenix 116, Los Angeles 102.

Archer, Barber Share Tie

TUCSON, Ariz. (UPI) — George Archer doesn't like 18-hole playoffs and Miller Barber does, but despite their feelings they faced each other in just such a playoff today for the Dean Martin-Tucson Open title and a top prize of $30,000.

Barber and Archer tied at 15 under par 273 at the end of the regulation 72 holes Sunday after Barber made a sizzling run from out of the pack.

It might have been a three-way playoff but for a bad drive on the final hole by third round leader Bobby Nichols. His drive went over the fairway and rolled into one of two lakes on the 18th fairway. He ended up taking a double bogey six on the hole and finished two strokes behind Barber and Archer.

Archer One Back

Archer was one stroke behind Nichols going into the fourth round, and the two traded the lead back and forth through 12 holes on the 7,200-yard Tucson National course.

Barber came from four strokes off the pace when he carded eight birdies and one bogey to move into the tie with a seven under par 65.

The tall, lanky Archer, winner of the Los Angeles Open title two weeks ago in a playoff, was tied for the lead after 18 holes and was the sole leader after the second round. He gave up the lead to Nichols in the third round by one stroke and then shot a 68 in the final round.

Doesn't Like Playoffs

Archer said after the final round that he did not like 18-hole playoffs because he loses one day at home with his family.

"If you can't beat a man in 72 holes they should play it off one hole at a time until one of you gets the advantage," Archer said. "Long playoffs are like 18 holes of sudden death, you're tense through the whole round."

Barber feels exactly the opposite about 18-hole playoffs.

"I think the long playoff gives both men a better chance to show their skill," said Barber, the balding veteran in the dark glasses. "Sudden death doesn't show as much skill as it does luck."

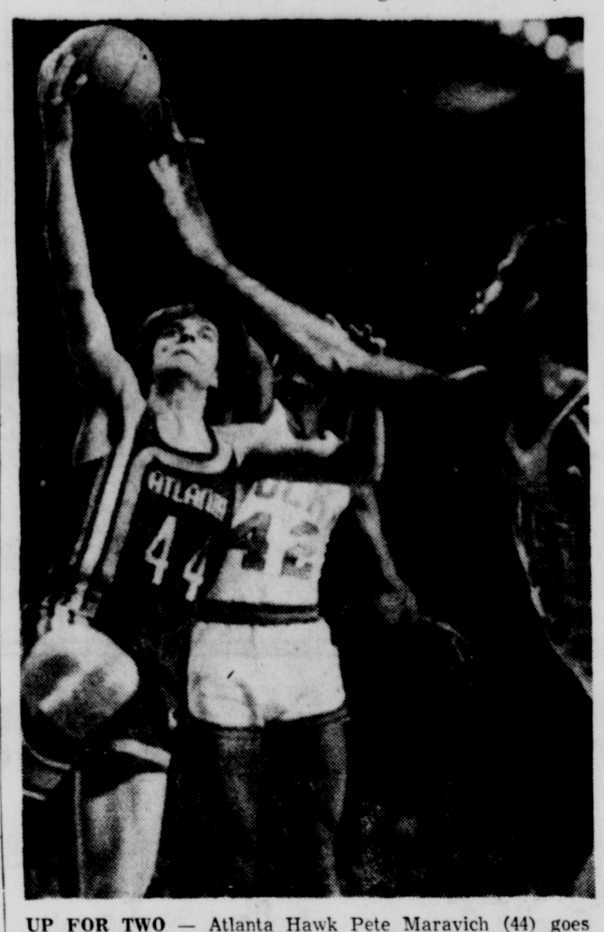

Barber said he hasn't played consistently since last fall, although he did play the two tournaments just before the Tucson open.

"My game really came around in Tucson," Barber said. "I was hitting all my shots well and putting especially well."

Tony Chills Maple Leafs

By United Press International

The Toronto Maple Leafs are the latest to know the frustration of facing Tony Esposito.

Esposito turned away 34 Toronto shots to record his league-high fifth shutout of the season Sunday night as the Chicago Black Hawks beat the Maple Leafs 4-0.

Esposito, who was tied with teammate Gary Smith for the league lead, stopped 17 shots in the first period alone but was called upon to stop only 17 more during the last two periods. Stan Mikita provided a pair of goals and Pit Martin and Bobby Hull collected one each for Chicago.

Hull's goal, his 35th, marked the 21st consecutive game in which he has logged at least one point—one game short of the National Hockey League record. He also assisted on Mikita's second goal.

Elsewhere in the NHL, Boston tied Buffalo 3-3, Minnesota beat Los Angeles 5-3, Montreal tied Pittsburgh 3-3, Detroit downed St. Louis 3-1 and California stopped Philadelphia 31.

Dallas Smith's 50-foot shot midway through the final period gave Boston its tie with Buffalo and kept the Bruins three points ahead of idle New York in the East. Smith's goal came after rookie Richard Martin of the Sabres collected his 33rd goal in the second period to give Buffalo a 2-1 lead.

Danny Grant's third period goal squelched a Los Angeles rally and enabled the North Stars to defeat the Kings. Minnesota held a 4-0 lead into the second period when Doug Barrie, Eddie Joyal and Juha Widing scored for the Kings within a four-minute stretch. Grant then hit his 11th goal at 8:45 of the final period to put the game out of reach.

Jacques Lemaire's tip-in early in the third period enabled the Canadiens to tie Pittsburgh. Greg Polis gave Pittsburgh a 3-2 lead with less than a minute gone in the final period before Lemaire took the puck in a goalmouth scramble and fired it past Les Binkley.

NHL Adds Two Teams

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (UPI)—The National Hockey League today officially expanded its membership to 16 teams as franchise holders of the new clubs at Atlanta and Long Island joined the circuit at the opening of a two-day session of the board of governors.

The league accepted the new franchises in December. Admission of the two into the league Monday confirmed that they have at least made a down payment on the $6 million dues.

The Long Island franchise must also pay the New York Rangers a $5 million indemnity.

Most discussion was expected to center on spliting the 16 teams into divisions. The most likely format was four divisions with Boston, New York, Montreal and Chicago each assigned to a separate division with three other teams.

Of course the league could simply add one of the newcomers to each of the present East and West divisions —making each an eight-team group. Under the two-way split the four top teams in both divisions would be eligible for the Stanley Cup playoffs. In four-way split only two clubs from each would be eligible.

Another matter sure to come up at the board is the threat of the budding World Hockey Association which has said it will begin play with 12 teams next season and would declare itself at war with the NHL teams to lure players from the established circuit by high monetary offers.

Rosemary Tops Durr

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Rosemary Casals of San Francisco used a strong net game to wear down Francoise Durr of Paris in the third set Sunday night and win the Long Beach Women's Pro Tennis Open, 6-2, 6-7, 6-3.

Miss Casals, seeded second, won the first set easily and took a 4-0 lead in the second set. But Miss Durr, ranked third, began to find the back line with lobs and the sidelines with placements and rallied to tie the set at 6-6, then won the nine-point tiebreaker 5-4.

But the San Franciscan broke service in the first and seventh games of the third set to win the $3,400 first prize in the $17,000 tournament. Miss Durr earned $2,200.

Billie Jean King, the top seed, pulled a thigh muscle in beating Helen Gourlay of Australia Friday night and was unable to rush the net in losing to Miss Durr Saturday night.

Jim Ryun Is Back

LOS ANGELES (UPI) —Jim Ryun is back. Just ask Kip Keino, the Olympic 1,500-meter champion from Kenya.

Hampered by allergy problems in 1971, the former Kansas flash made his first start of the indoor track season Saturday night and polished off Keino in a 4:06.8 miles in the Sunkist Invitational.

Despite his lackluster performances last year Ryun's name is still magic. The Ryun-Keino matchup drew a turnaway crowd of 13,493 at the Sports Arena.

"I think it was a good way to start in preparation for the Olympics," Ryun said nearly an hour after the race. "It took a lot out of me and I was emotionally upset, not sick."

Ryun said the victory over Kein was more important to him than the winning time but added, "I would have liked to have run faster. I think Keino also would have liked a faster time."

Keino, making his fourth appearance on his current tour of the United States, suffered his first defeat of the indoor season.

"I got boxed in twice," the Kenya policeman said. "Each time I had to drop back to last and work my way through the leaders. I felt if I hadn't been boxed, I would have won on the straighaway."

But Keino was not too upset over the loss. He said he now was returning home.

Ryun and Keino let John Lawson of the Pacific Coast Club set a slow early pace of 2:10.5 for the half mile. It was then that Ryun decided he had to step up the tempo and went to the front. As expected, Keino challenged in the final laps but couldn't close the gap and was clocked in 4:07.3.

The two-mile run was another highlight of the meet because of the return to winning form of three-time Olympian George Young of Casa Grande, Ariz., who outgamed Frank Shorter of Florida, one of America's top distance performers in the two-mile run in 8:47.2.

Young scored his win after finishing a well-beaten third in the San Francisco indoor meet Friday night.

"I didn't think I had a chance to win because I did so poorly the night before," Young said. "If I should decide to try for the Olympic team, it would probably be in the 5,000 or 10,000 meter events. You always like to beat good competition."

Granatelli-Petty Team Chalks Up Fast Victory

By United Press International

It didn't take long for the new Andy Granatelli Richard Petty entry to produce a winner.

Granatelli, for years a big name on the Indianapolis circuit, and Petty, last year's NASCAR Grand National champion, were united last week when Granatelli bought Petty's operation in a million dollar deal. Petty made the deal look good Sunday as he won the $103,000 Winston Western 500 in a 1972 Plymouth.

Petty, who won 21 races and $333,148 last season, finished one minute and one second ahead of Bobby Allison of Hueytown, Ala., who drove a 1972 Chevy. Petty, from Randleman, N.C., averaged 104.016 miles per hour over the Riverside, Calif., course, which was shortened to 390 miles because of darkness.

Petty won $11,870 for finishing first. Behind Allison was Bobby Isaac of Catawba, N.C., in third and Ray Elder, the defending champion, was fourth.

In other racing action, Scotland's Jackie Stewart, the defending world champion, won the seventh Grand Prix of Argentina in Buenos Aires. Stewart, driving a Tyrell Ford, finished well ahead of New Zealand's Denis Hulme in a McLaren. Belgium's Jackie Ickx, in a Ferri, was third.

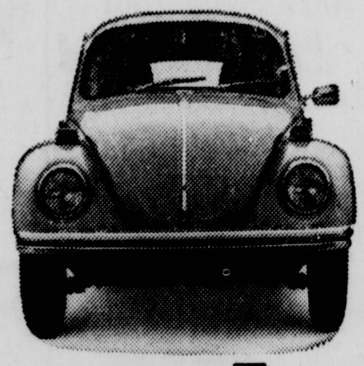

The team of Fred Van Beuren of the United States and Ruben Novoa of Mexico teamed to take first place in the Six Hours of Mexico race in a Porsche 911-R. The pair set a track record by covering almost 500 miles in the six-hour event.

UCLA Standing Taller

By United Press International

UCLA continues to stand out in the world of college basketball like the Empire State Building on a Kansas prairie.

No. 1 ranked UCLA, the five-time defending NCAA champion, rolled along with an easy 108-61 victory over Denver Saturday night while three "pretenders" to the national title were upset.

While UCLA was making winning look easy, third-ranked North Carolina was beaten by Duke, 76-74, fourth-ranked South Carolina bowed to Iowa, 91-85, and 13th-ranked Princeton lost to Fordham, 79-75.

Second-ranked Marquette scored its second triumph of the week when it beat DePaul, 70-61, but that hard-fought win hardly added to its credentials as the No. 2 team in the country.

UCLA went over the 100-point mark for the ninth time this season, scored its 14th straight victory this season and stretched its unbeaten string over two seasons to 29 games. Henry Bibby and Larry Farmer each scored 19 points for UCLA.

Duke ended North Carolina's 10-game winning streak when Robby West connected with a 20-foot field goal with five seconds left. Dennis Wuycik, who scored 23 points for North Carolina, missed with a last-gasp shot that would have put the game into overtime. Duke, now 8-6, was led by Richie O'Connor and Chris Redding, who scored 24 points each.

South Carolina lost its third decision in 13 games when Rick Williams scored 40 points for Iowa. The Hawkeyes played a tight defensive game throughout and three South Carolina players fouled out in the final four minutes. Kevin Joyce had 23 points for South Carolina.

Fordham (10-4) snapped Princeton's five-game winning streak and handed the Tigers their first loss at home in more than a year, when George Zambetti converted both ends of a one-and-one foul situation to give the Rams an insurmountable four-point lead with six seconds left. The Tigers had rallied from an 11-point deficit in the final four minutes.

Marquette stretched its winning streak to 15 games although pressed by DePaul throughout the contest. DePaul rallied from a 13-point halftime deficit to within three points of the Warriors but Jim Chones iced the game with a three-point play.

In other games involving the top 10, fifth-ranked Louisville edged Drake, 79-77. Allan Hornyak scored 36 points as sixth-ranked Ohio State beat Indiana, 80-74. Long Beach State, tied for the sixth-ranking, beat Loyola of Chicago, 79-58, with the help of Ed Ratleff's 22 points; and 10th-ranked Florida State downed Georgia Tech, 71-69.

Eighth-ranked Southern California and ninth-ranked Pennsylvania were idle.

Eau Claire, the No. 1 ranked small college team, ran its record to 13-0 with an 85-66 victory over Stout as center Mike Ratliff scored 33 points and pulled down 11 rebounds.

Beats Costello, 150-137

Earl Herring Eyes U.S. Open Tourney

KINGSTON — With his mission accomplished in Kingston Sunday, Earl Herring, the 29-year-old Newburgh Flash was setting his sights on larger horizons in the pocket billiard world today.

Herring defeated Billy Costello of Kingston, 150-137 in a pressure-packed, two and a half hour marathon before 200 buffs at Chapman's Golden Cue to lock up the first Kingston Invitational Pocket Billiard championship and with it a first prize of $500 and a spectacular trophy donated by the F&M Schaefer Breawing Company.

Starting today, Herring will vie against the best shooters in the East in the New York-New Jersey U.S. Open Qualifier at Elizabeth, N. J.

"That's my goal, the U.S. Open," said the soft-spoken father of two, who is rated by experts the best player in the Hudson Valley. "I think my game is good enough and if I get a few breaks I could make the Open."

It was a match replete with the classic ingredients of a tough pocket billiard duel between two cagey and experienced players—filled with superb safety play, scratches, spectacular bank shots (by Costello) and inevitably, easy misses by both players.

A run of 22 gave Costello an early 29-18 lead, but Herring put together three good runs (27, 32, 31) to open up a 109-54 margin over Costello and the match looked as good as over. But it wasn't.

"I'm leaving them for you," Herring side-mouthed to Costello after missing an easy shot to end his run of 31.

"Yeh," replied Costello, "everybody leaves them for me." The exchange pysched Billy the Kid into a strong comeback. He ran 37, missing an easy follow shot into a corner to cut Herring's lead to 109-91. After a prolonged safety-scratch duel, Costello ran 2 to go ahead for the second time 121-112. He came a cropper on a bridge shot. Herring ran 9 and played asafety to tie the score at 121-121.

A run of 14 by Herring and 6 by Costello set the stage for nine innings of cat-and-mouse safeties and scratches. Herring broke the ice with a dificult cut shot off a lower rail and moved ahead 140-124. Costello picked up a point on a fantastic bank shot the length of the table before missing another bridge shot.

After pocketing a ball, Herring missed another easy shot and another exchange followed. "Go ahead," said Herring to Costello. "I don't want it." He left 12 balls on the table.

This time Costello didn't reply. He stepped to the table, ran the 12 balls and played a long downtable safety that left Herring with a possible kiss shot off the heap.

Herring tried it and scratched, but Costetllo also scratched to make the score 142-137. They exchanged safeties, but Costello's left Herring with a difficult cut shot for the break. He made it and ran 8 and out to end the exciting marathon.

"I was satisfied with my game," said Herring after the squeaker. "My position play was good." He paid tribute to Costello left Herring with a "Billy played well," he said. "We both missed some easy shots and it could have gone either way."

Costello was magnanimous in defeat. "Earl played well and deserved to win," he said. However, everybody in the packed house knew Billy could have won it, too, with a break here and there.

Costello, who had top runs of 22 and 37, the best in the match to win second prize of $250 and a trophy. Bill Klindworth of Newburgh took third prize of $125.

U.S. Names Olympians

DENVER (AP) — Seventeen New Yorkers are among the 113 members of the United States's 1972 Winter Olympic team listed Saturday.

Most of them are on the bobsledding team. New York State has the hemisphere's only public bobsled run, at Lake Placid—although it has been closed temporarily for lack of maintenance funds.

Clinton state prison at Dannemora also has a bobsled run—for use by prisoners at the maximum-security facility only, however.

Athletes from New York named to the teams were:

Nordic Skiing—Nordic Combined: Joseph Lamb, Lake Placid.

Speed Skating—Men: Spec. 4 William Lanigan, Riverdale; A Sgt. John Wurster, Ballston Spa.

Bobsledding—A1C James Bridges, USAF, Plattsburgh; Philip Duprey, Saranac Lake; T-Sgt. James Hickey, USAF, Keene; A1C Larry Kilburn, USAF, Plattsburgh; Kenneth Morris, Kew Gardens; John Mulholland, Elizabethtown; Harry Petersen, Pottersville; Boris Said, New York; Howard Silver, Auburn.

Ice Hockey—Peter Sears, Lake Placid.

Alpine Skiing — Men: Hank Kashiwa, Old Forge.

Lanigan, Wurster, Duprey, Said and Silver were members of the 1968 Olympic team.

Skate Title To Schenk

DAVOS, Switzerland.(UPI) — The reigning world champion, Ard Schenk of the Netherlands, captured the overall title at the European speed skating championship today for the third time.

Schenk set a seasonal best time when he was clocked in 2 minutes 57-hundreths of a second in the 1,500 meters, the closing event. Previously he had won both the 500 and 5,000-meter races.

The 27-year-old Dutchman won three of four events and came close to completing a grand slam last achieved by Norway's Ivar Ballangrud in 1931.

Racing against Jan Bols of the Netherlands in the final 10,000 meter event, Schenk, a big man at 6 feet 2 inches and 200 pounds, took powerful strides and had the leading times right up to the fifteenth lap. But then he faltered and finally finished fifth.

CHAMPIONSHIP FORM — World Slalom Champion Jean Noel Augert of France speeds through a gate en route to a victory in the Lauberhorn World Cup Special Slalom in Wengen, Switzerland, Sunday. Augert is one of six skiers picked by the French Ski Federation for the fourthcoming Winter Olympics at Sapporo, Japan. (UPI)

Northrup, Lathrop Can-Am Winners

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (UPI)—Penny Northrup of Ellicotville, N.Y. and Steve Lathrop of Amherst, N.H. finished first in the women's and men's slalom events Sunday at the fifth Can-Am ski races.

The winds boosted Miss Northrup into second place overall in the women's standings and Lathrop into third place in the men's.

Dave Irwin of Thunderbay Ont., placed second in the men's event to take fourth place in the overall men's standings.

Miss Northrup finished first with a time of 115.48 for the two runs. Following her were: Susie Patterson, Sun Valley, Ida., 115.79, Martha Coughlin, Swanscott, Mass. 116.58, Kandi McCoy, Mammouth Lake, Calif. 117.02 and Karen Cloutier, Quebec 134.08.

Lathrop's time was 102.94 and Irwin followed with 104.17. The third place finisher was Tim Skaling, Stratton, Maine at 105.04 followed By Dave Cooper of Vancouver at 105.08 and Sheldon Terry, of Hanover N.H. with 105.10.

After five events the overall leader in the men's division was Don Rowles of Boise, Ida., with 58 points. He was followed by Rudd Pyles of Frisco, Colo. with 53; Lathrop with 51; Irwin with 47 and Skaline with 43.

The overall women's leader was Cheryl Bechdolt of Tahoe City, Calif., with 66 points. Behind her was Miss Northrup with 59; Jane Rollins of Mammouth Lake with 57 and tied for fourth with 45 points apiece were Becky Dorsey of Beverly, Mass. and Katie Moring of Santa Monica, Calif. Miss Coughlin was in sixth place with 40 points. The next event in the series will be held at Boyne Mountain, Mich., next weekend.

Silversmith to Hubbard

TURIN, N.Y. (UPI)— David Hubbard of Shelburne, Vt., beat James Knowlton of Middlebury, Vt., by less than a half second to win the men's slalom title in the 18th annual Oneida Silversmith ski races at Snow Ridge Saturday.

June Richardson, 15, of Plattsburgh defeated Sheryl Thompson of Greak Peek to win the women's title.

Hubbard, a 19-year-old freshman at the University of Vermont, had a combined time for two runs of 1:36.240, Knowlton's combined time was 1:36.686. Miss Richardson was clocked in 1:50.580 to the 1:50.480 registered by Miss Thompson.

Sixty-four men and 10 women competed over dual courses of 45 gates each.

Bucs Sign

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—Infielder Jose Pagan and southpaw pitcher Luke Walker have signed their 1972 contracts with the world champion Pittsburgh Pirates. Pagan, 36, batted .241 in 57 games last season, missing the final two months of the campaign because of a broken arm, while Walker posted a 10-8 record.

Ties SAA Record

Evans Scores 48

SAUGERTIES — Joe Evans stole the spotlight in the Saugerties Athletic Association Basketball League Saturday with a 48-point performance that tied the league's all-time scoring mark. Evans accounted for half the Mahogany Ridge output in a 100-96 loss to Allen Bus Lines in the first of three thrillers at Donlon Auditroium.

An offensive goal-tending call foiled Evans' chance at a new record in the closing seconds, and spoiled the Ridgemen's bid for an upset.

Naccarato Insurance made it two in a row in the second contest, downing Foster's Coach House 85-78, and in the finale the Raiders hung on to an 85-79 victory over the Irish.

Mahogany and Evans started slowly in the opener, as the Busmen jumped to a 23-17 first period lead. Evans' tally in the quarter was only seven points, but Joe came back before the half with 18 markers to power the Ridgemen to a slim one-point lead.

The game went down to the wire, and an Evans tap-in seemingly knotted things up at 98-all as the seconds elapsed. But the whistle took it away — the game and the record.

Frank Allen with 35, Rod Chando with 25 and Scott Miller with 20 proved too much firepower for Mahogany to handle, as the Busmen stayed in second place with a 6-2 victory.

Mahogany Ridge took its sixth defeat against a pair of wins. Jeff Hartman popped 17 points and Alan Kane added 16 to keep the Ridgemen close.

Naccarato's won their second straight after a string of six defeats behind the 25-point shooting of Jack Naccarato. Aided by 17 points from Tim Murphy and 16 from Craig Burkhardt, the Underwriters held Foster's at bay throughout the contest, and never relinquished their first quarter two-point lead.

Dave Whittaker, one of nine SAA hoopsters who bettered the 20-point mark, paced Foster's with 25, and Bob Ahlin added 21.

Naccarato's remained in the cellar tied with Mahogany at 6-2, and Foster's failed to advance, staying 3-5 in third with the Irish.

The Irish were the Raiders' eighth straight victim as the winners continued to pace the league. Balanced scoring from Warren Gritmon (17), Ron Thomas (16), Jack Keenan (14), Jerry Hawkins (13) and Gary Greiner (12) nullified 25 markers by Irishman Tom Tegeler and 20 from teammate John Kelly in the third game.

The Raiders managed a three-point advantage early in the game and matched baskets with the losers until a last minute burst spread the gap to six.

Next Saturday the pairings have the Irish leading off at 1 p. m. against Mahogany Ridge, Foster's facing the Raiders at 2:20 p. m. and Naccarato's dueling Allen's Bus Lines in the 3:40 p. m. final.

Your Horoscope

Tuesday, January 25

GENERAL TENDENCIES: The morning is the best time for whatever you want to do. Good for intelligently thinking out ways and means of accomplishing aims. But there is also a certain restlessness in the air that can cause people to deliberately, or otherwise, misunderstand their companions. Promises may be broken. Avoid this.

ARIS (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Talk over with allies just what should be done for greater success where regular operations are concerned. Later get out and make the right contacts. Add more color and cheeriness to your surroundings.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Financial affairs are important to you now, but you need advice from experts before you can handle them wisely. Get it. Show others you have practical, good sense. Go along with the best ideas offered.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) You can gain personal goals now if you handle them in a more objective fashion. A friend can oppose you without knowing all the facts, but don't let this bother you. Take it in your stride.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Spend spare time taking care of any personal problems you may have. Seek advice from good advisers so you have greater comfort and happiness. It is best to take it easy tonight.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) ry to be of assistance to friends who are having rough sledding, instead of expecting them to do for you. Labor alone now for best results. Avoid social activities as much as you can.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) You had better just carry through with duties at hand instead of taking some risk that would not bring you the advancement you want at this time. Pay bills and improve your credit rating. Make new plans in the p.m.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Don't jump into some plan that others have without first studying it carefully, and then drop it if you do not like it. Get the facts. Writing letters is fine but don't be too precise and formal.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Know what is expected of you by higher-ups and do your utmost to please them. Loved one may be a little demanding, but if you are diplomatic you find all will be fine. Stop being such a doormat.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Sit down with allies and see how to make joint outlets more profitable and pleasurable. Give full cooperation. Steer clear of one who opposes you and could prove to be very troublesome. Have happiness with mate in p.m.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) First get advice from others who are most experienced and then proceed with that work ahead of you. Not a good day to buy some new items of clothing. Fine for professional treatments, though.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You have an opportunity to enjoy a good time today, but make sure you are not extravagant and do not get into anything of a dangerous nature. Be cheerful about helping others not as fortunate as you. Smile.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You can make corrections now where rountine matters are concerned and can develop greater efficiency for the future. Strive for more goodwill from regular associates. This could be in both personal and business life.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will be one of those interested young people who is always buzzing around nervously and quickly who has the ability to understand the problems of others and to do something constructive about helping them. Slant the education along inventive, humanitarian lines that require both swiftness and thoroughness in the execution of duties, since there is a most brilliant mind here. Give good religious training early.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

OUTSIDER: (Q.) Four years ago I came to this new town and the kids have been mistreating me ever since.

It started with teasing. I ignored them so they started hitting me. I've talked to my guidance counselor and my teacher. The teacher scolded them and they called me a tattletale.

I know I am shy and I know the other kids are stuck up. But I don't know why they keep treating a new girl this way.—Mistreated in New York State.

(A.) Teen-agers are like people. They can be cruel to people they do not accept or people who do not accept them.

You seem to think your fellow students do not accept you. The fact may be that you do not accept them.

You are not a "new girl" any longer. You have been in the town four years. It's your town and you should be part of it.

Watch the habits and the customs of the other students. Try to adopt them. Be friendly. Go out of your way to be friendly. Pick out a girl or two you think you could like for special friends. Also start looking for a boy friend.

As for the students in general, be one of them. Do not stand aside and look at them as different from you. Do not invite them to tease or otherwise mistreat you. You do, you know, as long as you think of yourself and handle yourself as a "new girl"—an outsider.

CHEST VEINS: (Q.) I am worried about my breasts. They have bluish veins running up and under the armpits. The veins show through the skin—they don't bulge but they are visible.

I wear a 36B bra. I have gone without it several times. I have also taken exercises without it—14 in Maryland.

(A.) Fairly large veins in the female breast are natural. The veins are there to do a job. From your description, I do not get the impression that you have anything to worry about. But if you'd feel better about it, ask your doctor's opinion the next time you visit him.

Round-breasted girls like you should wear bras faithfully. The no-bra fad is all right for flatties, but breasts with any fullness need the support of a good bra.

Bridge

Jim Encourages Bad Play

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Oswald: "Anything can happen in a catch-as-catch-can rubber bridge game."

Jim: "It usually does. I sat South and, while I don't have an opening bid, I felt that the vulnerability situation called for some action. I chose to open one diamond. When my partner responded two clubs. I had to rebid, but wasn't going to pass; raise clubs; rebid a three-card suit or show my spades. That left me with two no-trump and I bid it. My partner jumped to four and there I was flying in the stratosphere with no fuel."

Oswald: "Your partner's four no-trump was a raise, not Blackwood. Needless to say you passed. How did you play the hand?"

Jim: "I won the heart lead with my ace and carefully led the three of clubs. West played low. I made the best percentage play and stuck in the jack. East took his queen, thought a while and led back a heart, whereupon I sailed home with the contract."

Oswald: "East made a bad play. But you played the clubs in a way to encourage him to try a stand pat defense. If you had led your nine of clubs East would have seen that the club suit would set immediately. When you led the three he visualized four clubs to the ace-nine in the East hand. That would leave West with two more club stoppers and the heart lead might well be the winner."

British Television Popular

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) —American television viewers are deeply in debt to the creative minds of British video. For it is the British who have provided either the ideas or the actual programs for some of the most worthwhile popular and cultural shows on television in America.

A cynic might say that the United States makes bad video programs better than the English, but that the British make good shows better than we do, in general. At any rate, consider our debt:

It increased modestly enough some years ago when the American networks imported such delightful, superior detective-agent type series as CBS-TV's "Secret Agent" and "The Prisoner," NBC-TV's "The Saint" and ABC-TV's "The Avengers."

But in recent seasons, and especially now, the level of British contributions to our home screens has escalated sharply.

For example, there was the superb 13-week series on noncommercial television, "Civilisation," which traced the development of the Western World through its art. And not so long ago CBS-TV ran another highly praised multipart program, "The Six Wives of Henry VIII," which provided dramatized accounts of the marital affairs of the colorful monarch.

Two U.S. Shows

At present, a pair of our most popular weekly situation comedies, CBS-TV's "All in the Family" and NBC-TV's "Sanford and Son," are based on long-running British hits.

"All in the Family," America's leading series hit, has made a household name out of the bigot who is the central character, Archie Bunker, and is based on the English show "Till Death Do Us Part."

"Sanford and Son," which seemingly has quickly established itself —after only two episodes, in fact —concerns an elderly, black Los Angeles junk dealer and his strained but poignant relationship with his 32-year-old bachelor offspring. It is adapted from the British series "Steptoe and Son," and, at this point, is working from a back load of scripts from the English show which are then shaped to the needs of our version.

Great Ratings

The latest news of "Sanford and Son" is rather amazing from a ratings standpoint. When it opened two Fridays ago, it scored extremely well in the overnight ratings in New York and Los Angeles. But NBC-TV warned cautiously that since the series was being offered, at present, on only about 160 of 217 network stations, the 70-city and national ratings might well be considerably lower. Then this happened:

Last Friday, the 70-city ratings of the premiere came in, and "Sanford and Son" finished sixth among all network shows, a surprisingly strong showing, under the circumstances, in the desirable urban markets.

But there's most to say about the British contriubtion to our video enjoyment: Tuesday night, NBC-TV will launch another multi-part series from England, "The Search for the Nile," which dramatizes in six programs the historic seeking by explorers and adventurers for the source of the great river. The first two hours will be presented back-to-back Tuesday, focusing on the explorations of the 19th century British writer and adventurer, Sir Richard Burton, and his assistant, John Hanning Speke. James Mason narrates the series.

BARBS By PHIL PASTORET

Of course, we laugh all the way to the bank — our account is so ridiculous.

We have a second-hand watch. The minute and hour hands dropped off last week.

Spare the rod, and the boy will leave you on foot every evening.

Do you recall when stern warnings to kids were administered with the back of a hairbrush?

For some perservering fellows, it's love at first slight.

One of the rarest commodities is common sense.

A monologue is a discussion with the boss.

One nice thing about Friday is that Monday is two days away.

Show us a man who sticks to his job, and we'll show you a glue factory worker.

There's nothing more cozy on a cold winter's day than an overpaid fuel bill.

Some of those old dishes mom used to make are, thankfully, forgotten.

The nicest thing about February is that it has 29 days only once every four years.

Smile! Why not let the world in on those new $350 choppers?

A man who is re-tired has just spent about $400.

Put on your old, gray bonnet, with the blue ribbons on it, and you'll start a fashion craze.

There's no business like show business, which a lot of producers are finding out.

Never put off until tomorrow what the boss is sure to ask you for today.

If you can take it or leave it, probably no one wants it.

No Age Limit • No Salesman Will Call • No Health Questions

Start Protection At No Charge

We have a great family insurance policy for you. It pays at the rate of $600 a month for adults ($360 a month for covered children) for as long as they stay in the hospital for any covered accident or illness.

If you're 65 or over, you're paid $420 a month in benefits, but only for your first three months in the hospital. From then on, you collect full benefits of $600 a month.

To attract as many new policyholders as possible, we offer you coverage without charge, while you're inspecting your policy. The National Home policy has very few ifs, ands or buts. You can understand it in just a few minutes. There's a chance that someone in your family will go to the hospital this year. If it happens to you, you'll find our benefits a godsend.

Extra Cash Paid Direct

This money is paid directly to you—not to any doctor or hospital. If you have bills to pay, you decide who gets paid first. If you're free and clear, you can put the money in the bank. And furthermore, our lawyers tell us this money is free from income taxes.

Regular Hospitalization Insurance May Not Be Enough

Do you have group insurance where you work? A Blue Cross Hospitalization Plan? A Blue Shield Medical Plan? Major Medical? Or are you on Medicare? You'll find, when you go to the hospital, that some policies like these don't pay all of your bills.

Our policy will pay you up to $20 a day for some of the expenses your other insurance may not cover when you are hospitalized.

Take Medicare. When you are hospitalized there is a $68 Hospital deductible and a $50 Medical deductible. Then there is 80-20 coinsurance on the Medical portion of your hospital bill (they pay 80% of the bill and you pay 20%). Finally, there are maximum allowances for each type of medical service. If a doctor charges more than the allowance—as many do—you have to pay the difference.

Our policy will help to pay for some of these expenses.

This National Home Policy Never Runs Out

If you were hospitalized today, would you know what your hospital coverage pays? Would you know if your present policies have a maximum benefit . . . a 1 to 2 year time limit . . . or any other such limiting features? Because some policies have these limitations . . . what would a long hospital stay do to your finances?

Our policy, however, pays you cash up to $600 a month—even for the rest of your life, if need be.

The tables on the right explain exactly what you get, what you don't get, and what you pay.

Get Started Now

Most important, though, is that it costs nothing to start your coverage for you and your entire family. Simply fill out and mail the official Enrollment Form. When your policy arrives, study it. If you like it, pay the first month's premium within 10 days of its effective date. Then, even if you are hospitalized during your inspection period, your policy will already be in force.

If you decide not to send in your first month's premium within those 10 days, you will not have coverage, and there is no further obligation.

"I think National Home's $600.00-a-month plan is just about the best additional financial protection you can give your family. That's why I'm happy to give this plan my whole-hearted endorsement. I've made a point of getting to know some of the folks at National Home. And you won't find more decent, friendly people to deal with. I cannot imagine anyone passing up the chance to enroll in this health plan."

Here's what we pay

(over and above Medicare and all other insurance)

If you're under 65

$600 a month—$20 a day—when you go to the hospital, starting from the very first day of confinement for any covered accident or illness. Payments continue as long as you are hospitalized—for life if necessary.

—PLUS—

$360 a month cash—$12 a day—when a covered child (one month through 18 years) goes to the hospital for any covered accident or illness. Payments continue as long as the child is in the hospital.

All your premiums after you, the policyholder, have been confined by a covered hospitalization for 8 weeks in a row. We pay the premiums for your entire family plus your monthly benefits until you leave the hospital. We pay them for life if necessary.

If you're 65 or older

$420 a month cash—$14 a day—when you go to the hospital for any covered accident or illness, starting from the very first day of confinement. Payments continue for three months, then become . . .

$600 a month cash—$20 a day—for as long as you're hospitalized—for life if need be.

—PLUS—

$360 a month cash—$12 a day—when a covered child (one month through 18 years) goes to the hospital—the same benefit as for policyholders under 65.

All your premiums after you, the policyholder, have been confined by a covered hospitalization for 8 weeks in a row—the same benefit as for policyholders under 65.

Here's what we don't pay

You are not covered for care in U.S. Government hospitals or nursing, convalescent, rehabilitation or extended care, alcoholic or narcotic facilities, or for hospitalizations due to:

1. Pre-existing conditions you had before the policy effective date if that condition causing the confinement was manifested within one year prior to the effective date of the policy (during the first two years only). Meanwhile, every new condition is covered.
2. War or Act of War.
3. Mental disorder.
4. Pregnancy or miscarriage.

Here's what you pay

Age at Enrollment	Monthly Premium* Per Adult
16-44	$4.90
45-49	5.60
50-54	6.30
55-74	7.00
75-79	8.50
80-84	9.90
85-89	10.60
90 and over	11.40

Add $2.70* per month to cover all unmarried, dependent children under 19. Newborn children are covered automatically at 1 month at no extra charge.

* All premiums lower if paid in advance quarterly, semi-annually or annually.

NOTE: These rates will not go up as you get older. They will not go up if you make frequent claims or large claims. Nor can the company cancel your policy for these or any other reasons. Only a statewide adjustment (up or down) of all policies like yours can ever change your rate. And no one can cancel this policy but you.

No catch to these rates

When you see premiums like these, you'd suspect that the policy is full of clauses that make payouts few and far between. This is not the case.

Look high and low through the provisions set forth in the policy. Let your lawyer or insurance agent help. You'll find no unusual exclusions.

Indeed, we feel that this plan's payout provisions are among the most liberal available. For example:

- We pay benefits on Workmen's Compensation cases. Many policies don't.
- We pay benefits for life if necessary. Many policies have a 1-year or 2-year limit.
- We pay up to $20 a day for as long as you are confined—even for life.
- We continue your insurance regardless of age. Some policies cancel you after a certain age.
- We excuse you from paying premiums when you are hospitalized longer than 8 weeks in a row. Most policies don't.

How then are these rates possible?

This special plan is offered by National Home Assurance Company of New York, which is licensed by the State of New York and a member of the National Liberty Corporation group of companies.

We sell insurance by mail. And administer it by mail. And have cut the cost of contacting you down to postage stamp size.

Your neighborhood letter carrier makes it all possible. He delivers more insurance for your money. And you don't even pay him a commission.
